Workman On Perry Highway Is Knocked Off Wagon By Truck

Driver Hurlled From Wagon As Truck Strikes

John Patton Seriously Injured
In Accident On Perry Highway This Morning

BROUGHT HERE TO JAMESON HOSPITAL

Driver Of Truck Being Sought From Reported License Number

John Patton, employed in construction work on the Perry highway, was seriously injured about 6:30 this morning when a truck laden with produce, crashed into his wagon, about 1½ miles south of Portersville.

Mr. Patton was thrown high into the air and alighted on his back on the concrete. His team immediately took flight and ran away. Patton was picked up by other employees of the highway and rushed to the Jameson Memorial hospital in this city. Preliminary examination showed that he was seriously injured about the back, but it will take an X-ray to determine if any bones are broken or dislocated.

Mr. Patton was driving south at the time of the accident. The truck, which it is understood had been to New Castle, came up behind him and struck the rear end of the wagon. Exactly what caused the driver of the truck to strike the wagon has not yet been ascertained.

The license number on the truck is said to have been 407KC. Records show that this number was issued to Mr. Salducci & Co. of 48 Albert street, Pittsburgh. It is likely that a report of the accident will be turned into State police headquarters when the name of the driver and the owner of the truck will be definitely ascertained.

When the team which Mr. Patton was driving ran away, one of the horses was seriously injured. The other horse escaped with minor injuries.

Mr. Patton, whose home is in this vicinity, with a brother, had been at work on the Perry highway all summer.

PA NEW OBSERVES

The New Castle News is certainly appreciative of the magnificent tribute accorded on Thursday, the fiftieth anniversary of the start of the newspaper in New Castle. Every appreciation that was extended is treasured, and will be an impetus to all connected with The News to endeavor to continue to serve this city and community to the fullest extent possible in the future.

Business office of The News almost rivalled the flower show in the Carnegie auditorium last night. Large numbers of people stopped to look at the magnificent display of floral pieces which had been presented to The News by well wishers on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary. The business office was kept lighted during the evening so that the beauty of the displays could be seen by all who chanced to be on Mercer street.

Fore! Yes, the runarounds have fallen for the miniature golf craze, too. On a recent tour of county farms Pa. News espied home-made courses on the lawns of two different homes.

One resident suggests the city take some of the old Grant street paving bricks and patch up a few of the rough spots along East Washington street. There are some, too.

Some time ago, Rolla D. Walter, of this city, took two Pea Fowl eggs out to the Jordan State Game Farm, and presented them to H. J. Sines, keeper. (Continued On Page Two)

NEARLY 200 MEN RUSH BURTON PLANT ERECTION

Every possible speed is being made by the Burton Explosive Company to get their new buildings near Coverts Station under roof by the cold weather. Because of grading and foundation work which is being done, little building has been started as yet, but this will be under way as soon as it is humanly possible.

About 175 men are at work, with teams, shovels, etc., with every man interested in getting the buildings up. Railroad sidings are being run in and inside of sixty days some very concrete evidence of the work will be seen.

There is no welcome sign out for curious sightseers. The officials of the company are interested in just one thing, work, and that work pointed towards getting the buildings up. Inside the fence are parked the automobiles of employees but no one but a watchman is visible. The owners

Council Prepares To Discuss Euclid Ave. Paving With Board

Euclid avenue will be the principal subject Monday when city council convenes at city hall, providing a delegation of school board members journey to council chambers and urges grading and paving of the thoroughfare, at the west end of which is situated the George Washington junior high school.

This was indicated today when councilmen discussed the situation and developed that June 1, 1928, an ordinance was passed for the grading and paving of the thoroughfare.

"If the school board will pay for their share of the improvement there is nothing to prevent it," said Solicitor R. M. White.

"I believe it should be a 50-50 proposition," remarked Councilman L. G. Genkinger.

"The school board has money and we have not," councilman W. T. Burns stated.

"They should reduce their taxes and let us put some on," said Councilman Reeves.

"They build properties in the mud and let us improve them," Mayor W. H. Gillespie declared.

Argentine's New Government Puts Up Economy Plea

Sound Government Will Be Dealt Out By New Regime In Control Of Argentine

PLAN TO HONOR ALL OBLIGATIONS

President Uriburu And Ministers Working On Stringent Economic Basis

By PERCY FORSTER
International News Service Staff Correspondent
(Copyright, 1930, International News Service.)

BUENOS AIRES, Sept. 12.—A policy of stringent economy and sound government backing of all debt obligations incurred by the deposed Irigoyen regime will form the financial keynote of the Argentine's new provisional government. These assurances were outlined today in an exclusive interview granted International News Service by Minister of Finance Enrique Perez.

Seated in his office in the government houses on Plaza Mayo at a desk piled high with formidable-looking documents, Senator Perez expounded with tireless energy to your correspondent the various pressing problems to be solved by Provisional President Uriburu and his ministers—puzzling matters of finance and administration that are the sole leftovers of a vanished political machine.

Will Honor Debts.

"We have been asked whether the new government will honor debts contracted by the Irigoyen regime. My answer to that is that I cannot admit the possibility of the Argentine refusing to attend to its obligations under any circumstances."

"When the provisional government took over control, it decided to ask the banks two things: First, its advice about money; second, its opinion on the ministry. Both answers were contained in an offer from our banks of (Continued On Page Two)

State, County And City Confer On Mahoning River Project

CURVE APPROACHES TO BE ELIMINATED

Prospects are bright for the construction of a new bridge across the Mahoning river at Willow Grove next year, according to a conference between T. C. Frame, state highway district engineer, County Commissioners Elder and McCullough with Mayor Gillespie and city councilmen at the city hall today.

The discussion developed that the state and county desires the curve eliminated and the roadway straightened. The city, according to Solicitor White and other conferees owns a stretch of ground necessary for the northern approach to the proposed new bridge.

The city officials were asked if the city would be willing to rebuild the roadway for a portion of approximately 100 feet and to also build the approach. Council virtually agreed to this. The state will build the approach. (Continued On Page Two)

Jury Recommends Building Addition To Court House

Also Finds That Better And Safer Building Needed For Detention Home

After making a tour of county buildings Thursday afternoon the grand jury, which has been in session since Monday, reported that they are all in good shape, but that more room is needed for records in the different offices of the court house. The jury recommended that an addition be erected to the present court house. This recommendation differs from that of other grand juries, which have been recommending a new court house. The present jury was of the opinion that an addition would take care of the records for many years to come.

The jury was also of the opinion that a better and safer building is needed for a detention home. The building at present used is an old frame structure, adjoining the sheriff's residence.

Federal Agents Launch Attack On Citizenship Ring

Ring Operated By Collecting Fees From Illiterate Aliens Is Charge

ALIEN BOOTLEGGERS MADE USE OF RING

Assistant U. S. Attorney General Says $40,000 To $50,000 Has Been Collected

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—A concerted drive by Federal agents to stamp out an alleged fake "citizenship ring," today had brought 12 persons under arraignment and 20 others under secret indictment, and authorities were on the trail of fifty others.

According to Assistant United States Attorney John W. Schenk, nearly 8,000 aliens have paid between $40,000 and $50,000 this year to the "ring." The fees for tutors and witnesses, ranged between $25 and $100, according to Schenk.

The ring operated, the attorney said by impressing upon illiterate aliens, the danger of being deported if they did not take out citizenship papers, which, they said, would be impossible to get without "help."

Schenk said it was his belief that many alien bootleggers availed themselves of the "citizenship mill" to obtain first, second and third papers, thereby protecting themselves against deportation.

Hemphill Attacks Prohibition Law In Campaign Talk

Democratic Candidate Scores Prohibition And Pinchot In Talk At Chambersburg

WILL SPEAK AT BIG FAIR TODAY

(International News Service) CHAMBERSBURG, Pa. Sept. 12.—Tossing the bombshell of a dripping wet speech into the laps of voters of Franklin county, dyest of agricultural regions, John M. Hemphill, Democratic nominee for governor today was on the way to Reading where at the Berks County fair, he will continue his campaign for election.

Hemphill's address, delivered at the annual Franklin County fair late yesterday, came as a surprise to his hearers, who had expected a more or less routine speech. Thousands of persons gathered to hear Hemphill, Sedgwick Kistler, Democratic nominee for U. S. Senator and other Democratic candidates when the gubernatorial nominee delivered his scathing attack on prohibition.

"Our existing prohibition laws are all wrong," Hemphill declared. "Not because of the appetite for drink which may go unsatisfied but because the amendments to the constitution are radically wrong from a legal viewpoint."

Scores Pinchot "The reason the 18th amendment is a notorious failure is because it is mainly enforced in the wrong place. It will never work."

"It must be repealed and the States should and must be allowed individually to decide in this matter just what is best for themselves."

Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for governor, came in for a tentative attack. Hemphill scored the former governor as one "who is a Republican when he finds it to his advantage to be one and who is not a Republican when it is advantageous not to be one."

Hemphill also attacked Pinchot's platform regarding abolition of the coal and iron police, declaring that Pinchot's plan for the suppression was purely personal while the Democratic platform called for their abolition by the legislature.

The Democratic nominee's vigorous denunciation of the dry laws, it was reported, caused more or less consternation among local Democratic leaders who had advised him to "play down prohibition and talk crops and weather" because of local dry sentiment.

and William B. Linn, seeking places on the superior court bench, and Philip H. Dewey, candidate for the post of secretary of internal affairs. Secretary Davis, who declared a definite upward trend in business already was noticeable during an address yesterday, will speak at Selinsgrove tomorrow but has made plans to attend the conference by the use of an airplane, flying from the Snyder County City to Pittsburgh at the conclusion of his address.

Pinchot's visit to Pittsburgh will climax a rapid-fire succession of meetings throughout the state in the past week, during which he formally launched his campaign with a series of militant and characteristically forceful speeches. Tomorrow, the "tall forester" swings Crawford county for an address at Titusville in the morning, speaks at Meadville at noon and winds up the week with a radio broadcast from Pittsburgh.

It is believed that tomorrow's conference is for the purpose of correlating plans for the campaign into a definite and united drive for ballots by the regular Republican organization in November.

You're the JUDGE

Aged Mr. Billfax died and left a youthful widow. Shortly after he married her he wrote a will in which he named his widow as administrator of his estate.

When Mr. Billfax was still living a suit was filed against him demanding the proceeds of the sale of certain real estate. Billfax admitted the amount of the proceeds, but disputed the right to set off against the claim two promissory notes made out by the man who filed the suit. The man made answer and argued that the notes were given for an illegal consideration—gambling in oil stocks—and pressed his cause for action.

In the meantime Billfax had died and now the complainant turned to the widow, the administrator, who in turn made the same plea concerning the promissory notes.

It probably happened a long time ago, but Pa New just noticed it today, and is quite hot up about it. Now we ask you—who took the hedge from around the Public Square, Pa. New was just getting quite attached to the hedge that was planted in the Spring, and then they cart it away. Perhaps a horse got hungry or something.

Pheasants are excitable birds. H. J. Sines of the Jordan State Game Farm explained to Pa New, the other day. They require the quiet of the Game Farm to be successfully raised. The beautiful male pheasant that was exhibited at the New Castle Fair died very soon because of the excitement.

Heard a couple of men arguing about a rather queer question, Wednesday afternoon. The question was something like this—"How many spikes are there on the iron fence that surrounds the First Christian church on the Diamond?" Now isn't that foolish?" He served a sort of puzzled Pa New as he began counting the spikes. He counted 500 and then his enthusiasm died down when he gazed at the number remaining to be counted.

burgh September 2. The board was held in the armory of the 76th field division and was comprised of Col. Fish of the 28th division, Capt. Savage, army cavalry instructor, and Col. Island of the medical reserve.

Fine Service Record. Capt. Bintrim began his military career in April, 1917, when he joined Troop F, then the First Pennsylvania cavalry. He served as a private until September of that year, then joined the 107th field artillery. He served overseas with the National Guard for a period in England, France and Belgium.

Among the battles in which the Troop F commander took part were the Ypres Lys offensive in Flanders, the Meuse-Argonne offensive, the offensive in the Marne river district at Oise Aine and fighting in the Fismes Vesle sector.

After the war he was first to enlist when Troop A, 104th cavalry, Pennsylvania National Guard, was reorganized in this city. In 1922 he was commissioned as second lieutenant of cavalry and three years later became a first lieutenant. He resigned in 1925 to receive an appointment as second lieutenant in the officers' reserve corps, in which he served four years.

On June 3, 1929, Bintrim took command of Troop F as a first lieutenant and has held that rank until his present appointment to the captaincy. The last commander of Troop F who held the rank of captain was William R. Walter, who resigned last February from the local organization after he had been transferred from the city in his work.

The citizen's military committee of this city will pay honor to Capt. Bintrim for his recent advancement, it was learned this morning. The nature of the function is still uncertain and the date has not yet set.

Hon. Fred Rentz,

Dear Mr. Rentz: These belated greetings come to The News and you on your fiftieth year anniversary.

I think it is generally admitted that the Negro is handicapped. Because of color he is often put to a great disadvantage; for the streams of public institutions do not flow so freely through the area occupied by him. Newspapers are no exception, and it is only when they are controlled by men of your mould and cast that he obtains anything like a square deal in publicity. In most cases he can always get a good write up when he does something not so commendable as when he does nothing at all. But the good is often interred in the waste basket.

As senior minister of our group, having spent ten years serving our group, and having these years dealt with The News and read it, I think I may be permitted to speak authoritatively thus: That for treatment without bias, courtesy without discrimination, I venture the opinion that The New Castle News is without a peer anywhere as it concerns the colored man in the field of journalism. So much so that we think of The News as being a kind of group of human beings interested in—"Just folks," more so than a corporation. Surely the spirit of the owner permeates the order.

May God grant all that is best to you and with best wishes for continuous public service by The News.

SEPTEMBER EVENING SKY
By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

A SPLENDID TIME to view the September evening sky is around the 15th of the month, between the hours of 8 and 10. Cygnus is right over head; Pegasus is nicely up in the east; Bootes with its fine star Arcturus is away over in the northwest and so is Corona. Vega in Lyra is a little west of the zenith; the quadrilateral shaped head of Draco is just north of Vega, and the dragon's long body extends eastward and then to the northwestward, turning in between the Little and the Big Dippers, the latter being now under the Pole star near the horizon. Capricornus of the zodiac is in ascendency this month.

building in the mud," Councilman Clayton Reeves stated.

Solicitor White said that in his opinion the construction of large schools is wrong. He believes they should be more centrally placed and smaller schools. He described how children residing at distant points had to travel to George Washington junior high.

In fact council discussed several school affairs, for instance, the time allotted for lunch periods, the cost of the food and indicated they would be very willing to discuss the improvement of Euclid avenue with directors.

School Director Bauman is quoted as having said recently that you have to apologize for the condition of Euclid avenue. It seems to me high time that the street was paved. For myself I would be willing that the school board should pay its share of the cost in order to get the work done.

Under the law the school board is exempt from paying an assessment if it decides not to pay. There is no law, however, which prohibits the school board from paying an assessment should it desire to do so.

Councilmen indicated today that the delegation of school directors would visit city hall Monday.

supposedly the connecting link between the president and the generals. General Curt Von Schleicher, head of the ministerial office in the ministry of national defense and the strongest man in the army, and general Curt Von Hammerstein, head of the department of foreign troops in the ministry.

General Wilhelm Groener, present minister of national defense, who hitherto had been considered a reliable democrat because he was the first to tell the former Kaiser in 1918 that he should abdicate, is held either to have been won over or to be on the way out. Even a successor is already being mentioned for his post. He is general Hans Von Seeckt, former commander of the German army, who had to resign because under his regime the eldest son of the former Crown Prince was permitted to participate in army maneuvers.

Two Developments. It is impossible to say how much of these alleged plans is true, if anything, and how far the personalities mentioned favor them, if at all.

The rumors regarding such plans are based mainly on two developments within Germany:

First: The inability of the extreme parliamentary government in Germany to cope with the difficulties of an economic crisis.

Second: The new freedom which German foreign policy has achieved following the allied evacuation of the Rhine.

The economic crisis is blamed on the reparations payments imposed on Germany and on the over-extension of the socialistic principle in German government and German business. Powerful industrial and political interests are determined to force to fight back the socialistic tide if necessary by a dictatorship.

Many Reconciled. Even republican and democratic circles, despondent over the inability of the many parties in Germany to agree on a common program and the improbability of a government majority at the elections of September 14 are becoming reconciled to the idea of a temporary dictatorship. What they seek is to insure that if such a temporary dictatorship should become necessary it should be exercised by legal rather than illegal means.

German foreign policy apparently has definitely embarked on the problem of revising the peace treaty of Versailles, in order to regain some of the territories which the treaty took from Germany, to revise the Young plan of reparations settlement and to free Germany of other disabilities imposed on her.

German leaders agree that the elimination of the Polish corridor which separates East Prussia from the rest of Germany, and the earliest possible revision of the Young plan must be the next objective of German foreign policy, but they are by no means agreed on the speed and the methods by which objective is to be attained.

Deaths of the Day

Mrs. Eva Fleeger Crosson.
Word was received at midnight Thursday by New Castle relatives of the death of Mrs. Eva Fleeger Crosson, aged 32, wife of Howard Crosson of Chicago.

A shock was caused by the message as at 1 o'clock Thursday Mrs. Crosson was in the best of health, apparently, when Mr. Crosson left the house, and when he returned at 8 p. m. he found her dead. It was pronounced by the doctors who were called that a cerebral hemorrhage was the cause.

Mrs. Crosson was formerly Eva Fleeger, daughter of Francis and Theresa Fleeger, and was born in this city September 30, 1898, on Euclid avenue. She attended the schools of the city and resided here until a short time ago when she removed to Chicago with her husband.

She is survived by her husband, her father, Francis Fleeger of California; two sisters, Mrs. George Scott of Butler and Mrs. Ed Filban of this city, and six brothers, Jasper of Ellwood City, Clarence and Francis of Chicago, Oliver, George and Howard Fleeger of this city.

The funeral services will be held and interment made in St. Joseph, Mo.

Lack Employment, Cannot Pay For Support Of Wives

Same Excuse Is Given By Husbands In Desertion And Non-Support Cases

Lack of steady employment was the excuse given by nearly all the men summoned before Judges Hildebrand and Chambers today on charges of desertion and non-support made by their wives. There were a number of old cases in which orders had been made for the payment of specified sums per week. Some of the husbands claimed that they were only working two or three days a week, and others that they are not working at all.

Andy Gierlack, who had been indicted to pay his wife $7 per week, claimed that he had been unable to get employment and could not pay. He was remanded to jail.

James Barker also claimed that he had been unable to earn enough to give his wife an allowance. He was committed to jail for a further disposition of his case.

The desertion and non-support case brought against Patrick J. Hennessy by his wife, Lydia Hennessy, was dismissed upon the payment of costs by the defendant.

Other cases scheduled Norman Ketzler, charged with desertion and non-support by his wife, Marion Ketzler; David Brown, charged with desertion and non-support by his wife, Retta Brown; James R. Nelson, charged with non-support of children; Willis Douglas, charged with desertion and non-support by his wife, Myrtle Douglas; and Alfred W. Evans, charged with desertion and non-support by his wife, Thelma Evans.

RODGERS-McCORMICK WEDDING NUPTIALS

The wedding of Miss Charlotte H. Rodgers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Rodgers of 1306 Delaware avenue, to Lloyd C. McCormick of Salem, Ohio, and son of the Rev. and Mrs. J. Harvey McCormick of Slippery Rock, quietly celebrated at the home of the bride's parents on Thursday, September 11, was one of the most beautiful home weddings of the season.

The ceremony was performed at 5:45 o'clock by the Rev. J. Harvey McCormick, father of the groom and pastor of the Slippery Rock United Presbyterian church, assisted by Rev. C. J. Williamson, pastor of the Highland United Presbyterian church of this city, who officiated with the ring service before members of the immediate families and a few intimate friends of the couple. The bride was lovely in an exquisite gown of poudre-line, with accessories to match. She carried an arm bouquet of yellow rose-buds and blue delphinium tied with a large bow of blue silk maline. Miss Alberta Brenner, who was chosen as bridesmaid, was attired in a frock of blue flowered chiffon fashioned on the same lines, and carried a bouquet of pink rose buds tied with yellow maline, and wore matching accessories. Frank Connors of New Brighton, served as best man.

To this charming picture, music added to its charm, the "Lohengrin Wedding Chorus" and "I Love You Truly" being selected. The music was played by Miss Margaret Reynolds of Elwood City and a cousin of the bride. To the strains of wedding music, the bride descended the stairs, and entered the parlor where they stood before an embankment of ferns and palms. A contrasting color scheme of green and yellow was carried out in the arrangement, and huge baskets of cut flowers were placed on either side, adding to the beauty of the setting. Many bouquets of flowers, perfectly arranged, decorated the home throughout in a pretty manner. After the responses were made and the vows plighted, a congratulatory period was held.

A wedding dinner supplemented the ceremony served in the dining room, with covers being laid for 31 guests. The bride table which seated 12, was attractive in its pastel hues, the centerpiece being formed with the bridal bouquets. A large heart-shaped cake decorated with yellow candied roses and blue forget-me-nots was cut after the serving of a delicious menu. Numerous side tables, nicely arranged, were centered with bud vases containing rose-buds.

Later in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. McCormick left for a honeymoon trip of ten days to New York, Atlantic City and St. Louis, Mo. For traveling, the bride wore an ensemble of black and white with matching accessories. Upon their return they will take up their residence in Beaver Falls.

The bride is a graduate of the local Senior High school, class of '25 and has been associated with The New Castle News Company for the past seven months. Mr. McCormick is also a high school graduate, and attended Geneva College. He is affiliated with the chief engineers office of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, where he holds a responsible position.

Guests were present from Pittsburgh, Beaver Falls, New Brighton, Elwood City, Youngstown, Ohio, Grove City, Greenville and Conneville.

Attorney Orville Brown is a visitor in Pittsburgh today.

FALL LUNCHEON OPENS SEASON

Perfect in every appointment was the opening event of the fall season for the Council of Jewish Women when they met at 1:30 Thursday in The Castleton with the new president, Mrs. B. Kline, in charge.

A U shaped table was profusely decorated with bowls and vases of garden flowers; fall roses, calendulas, dahlias and gladioli being used effectively, while at the place marked for the guest speaker, Mrs. Bert Printz of Youngstown, was a beautiful corsage of rosebuds and baby breath. The officers and visiting officers were seated at the speaker's table and Mrs. Kline greeted the members and guests in a brief welcoming speech and asked for the co-operation of ever member throughout the coming year.

After the luncheon had been served Mrs. Kline introduced Miss Virginia Cooke and Miss Helen Johnson, who were the entertainers, Miss Cooke sang two groups of songs; at the beginning of the program: "My Heart's Country" by Kathleen Blair Clarke and "In A Garden" by Robert Schumann, and to close her program gave "I'll Sit To Le Charnement Rossignol" "Hush the song of the Nightingale" by Gritchenoff and a charming, lilting number "The Sleigh" (a La Russe) by Richard Kountz, which received the hearty applause of her audience. She was accompanied by Miss Johnson.

Mrs. Bert Printz of Youngstown, who was the guest speaker of the afternoon, was then introduced by Mrs. Kline, although to the Council members she needed no introducing, being the past president of the Youngstown council and honorary vice president of the National Council and having looked after affairs at the organization of the New Castle chapter. Mrs. Printz is a woman of prepossessing appearance and charming personality and she greeted the women in a warm hearted way, telling them how glad she was to be with them and then proceeded to speak of the work of the Council of Jewish Women and told the members how they must accommodate the works of the national council to fit the needs of their local organization.

She spoke of the splendid work that has been done in the past through this organization of women, how much they had helped the people of Palestine and also the Jewish people coming into America. She spoke of the work among the farm and rural residents and told the women to adapt the new department added by the National Board to their needs as they fitted the work.

She asked the women to co-operate most fully in every way with their new president so the work of the local chapter would lose nothing the coming year.

There were out of town guests present from Los Angeles, Calif., New York City, Youngstown Ohio, and Beaver Falls.

The hostesses for Thursday's event were Mrs. D. Silverman, Mrs. A. I. Wachs, Mrs. L. Zieve, Mrs. N. Rosen, Mrs. P. Winick, Mrs. J. Titus and Mrs. S. Edelstein.

The new officers for the 1930-31 season are Mrs. B. Kline, president; Mrs. Marcus Feuchtwanger, honorary president; Mrs. Joseph Ehrlich, honorary vice president; Mrs. Norman Ehrlich, Mrs. Irvin Grossman, Mrs. Harry Cukerman, vice presidents; Mrs. Ted Marlin, recording secretary; Mrs. Larry Davis, corresponding secretary; Mrs. J. Crime Never Pays

THE UPWARD TREND

IT IS a tradition of banking that Labor Day marks a turning point for the better in most lines of trade and industry. Current indexes indicate that the rule is holding good this year.

Grain prices, an index closely watched by experts to try to chart the course of general business, stiffened the first week of September. Another assault on Wall Street by the bears failed to force down securities prices, chiefly for the reason that the public is gaining confidence in securities valuations and business.

Advised by informed agents in all quarters of the world, Henry Ford predicts a business revival of large proportions. The Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania is showing what it thinks about the future of business by spending $40,000,000 for improving and extending its system to meet increasing demands. Neither has the Pennsylvania Railroad stopped spending because of the business depression blues.

Perhaps the most significant of the signs and indexes is the rising tide of retail buying, which indicates that the mood of doubt and fear, which was the essential cause of the widespread business recession, is coming to an end.

No one should lose confidence in the strength and stability of the economic structure in America when it can pass through three such storms as the stock market crash, widespread disorders in the richest foreign markets and the drought without wrecking itself.

A RIGHT OF THE STATES

Ponderous platitudes are not the only thing Calvin Coolidge is capable of, editorially. He demonstrated that fact in the following reference to the Nye investigating committee:

"After the supreme court decision that jurisdiction over nominations rests with the states, an investigation of them under the fiction that it is for the purpose of future legislation is a questionable use of authority. It would seem to lead almost to the conclusion that the people cannot be trusted to choose their own candidates without supervision. To admit this is to admit that self-government has failed."

If it is true that self-government has failed and that the people cannot be trusted to choose their own candidates without supervision, then it naturally follows that those senators who would supervise them are also electorate mistakes, unless they concede that they were elevated to office by organization politics rather than by the will of the people.

Not until the end of time will the United States senate convince the people that the framers of the constitution intended to give the senate the right to dictate to the people of any state in the matter of nominations for the senate. For a state to which any outside power can dictate in regard to its internal affairs is no longer self-governed.

The constitution provides that the senate shall be the sole judge of the qualifications of its members, and prescribes what those qualifications shall be. But it does not empower the senate to invent disqualifications upon which to bar from its body the duly elected.

TIGHTENING THE LAWS ON LABOR IMMIGRATION

President Hoover's decision to tighten the immigration laws during the present period of unemployment in this country is based on both legality and common sense.

It is quite true that only congress has the right to change the quotas for the various countries; but in the course of administering the law our officials have a certain amount of discretion which really gives them the power to regulate the number admitted at any given time. Thus if a prospective immigrant is refused a visa by our consul at the port of departure, it is impossible for him to enter the United States.

The state department, therefore, has directed the attention of our consuls to the unemployment situation here and instructed them to be more strict in applying the "public charges" section of the law. The exercise of this broad power will have the effect of excluding all foreign laborers who are "without reasonable prospect of prompt employment" in this country.

This action is perfectly just, not only to those who would enter our gates from foreign nations, but also to our own workmen, who have felt the temporary depression in the business world. Acting Secretary of State Cotton, in making a report to the president on this matter, says that in normal times an applicant for admission to this country would be accepted as a matter of course if he be an able-bodied person who means to work, if he comes within the quota allowed his country and has sufficient funds to reach his destination; but in abnormal times, where there is not a reasonable prospect of employment, the consul is charged with unusual responsibility. "If," says Mr. Cotton, "the consular officer believes that the applicant may probably be a public charge at any time, even during a considerable period after his arrival, he must refuse the visa, although the applicant need not by such refusal lose the advantage of his priority of application and may get his visa when employment conditions again become normal."

Obviously this gives our officials abroad discretion to act in accordance with changing conditions in the labor world. Last winter efforts were made to induce congress to cut the immigration quotas in half, but the proposed legislation was buried in the usual last-hour rush prior to adjournment. President Green of the American Federation of Labor has asked a complete ban on all immigration for this fall and winter. The president has no power to do that. What he has done will accomplish much, however, and still be within the law.

It is interesting to note that the application of this rule has cut down immigration from both Mexico and Canada. Only 3140 Mexicans have come into the United States in the last six months, as compared with an annual rate of 56,747 for the last five fiscal years, or a reduction of over 88 per cent. Our immigration laws on the one hand and our protective tariff policy on the other are invaluable means of protecting our own people. The one complements the other.

George H. Shaw ran against Mr. Hodges for the Republican senatorial nomination in Colorado. Shaw made his objection to the League of Nations, the International Bank and the League Court his chief issues, and won.

Mr. Hodges learned that official thinking done in Washington is not always the thinking that is done outside of Washington.

Yesterday, Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, came out in favor of repealing the prohibition amendment.

This means that the Democratic government and party of New York goes wet, hook, line and sinker. What is more serious for the dries, it probably will mean refusal of New York state authorities to co-operate in the suppression of bootlegging.

There will be presumably, the usual co-operation WITH bootlegging, based in each case on a substantial consideration, but that is limited to the underworld and the sub-stratum of officialdom.

Mussolini is displeased about something, and Grandi, his representative at the League of Nations at Geneva, leaves suddenly, with no explanation, just as France is developing her plan for a "United States of Europe."

The difference between Mussolini and other European statesmen is that they talk and he acts. The League is much puzzled.

Miss Ederle can tell the young girl from South Africa that swimming the channel does not pay. You lose your hearing in the cold water and the world soon loses its recollection of you.

The strong girl from South Africa is an interesting product of that group of white people transplanted on a dark continent.

The Timid Soul.
Aren't you too fearful?
To fear to do things because of possibility of failure or injury is to show a decidedly weak streak in your makeup.

Fear has possibly retarded your life, your undertakings throughout your life. As a driver you seek to avoid traffic—it makes you so nervous, with the result that lack of experience tells at a crucial moment.

All your life you have sought the easiest way.

You have been relieved of much worry during the years, but now troublesome thoughts come because you have not been as successful as you have wished.

But you have favored yourself for so many years that you haven't the sort of nerve that it takes to carry things to a successful issue.

At last a full sense of your timorous disposition has sunk in and you feel completely at sea as to which way to turn.

You realize that you are incompetent and know the reason.

You have lost confidence in yourself.

This is the hopeless state of all those who give in to fear and let it master when courage is needed to push forward and get worthwhile results.

When you have these doubts and wonder whether or not you are right, that is the time to work harder and fear less.

It is evident from the extensive preparations for the event that the queen is much loved by her subjects. We finished a thirty-two day motor-trip on Monday of this week. Notwithstanding we have had much rain and cool weather, the trip was interesting. One gets impressions of the country and existing conditions that are hard to get otherwise. My observations led me to believe that most of the people of central Europe still have a hard struggle ahead of them, with oppression, taxes and business bad their outlook at this time is far from encouraging. View Of The New Baumes Law Questions Its Efficiency

Author Of New York Law, By Placing Emphasis On Modification In Favor Of Parole, Stirs Echoes In Other States Dealing With Fourth Offenders

National attention is given to the attitude of Senator Baumes of New York, author of laws in that State dealing with the control of crime. His belief that a parole board should have authority modifying the provision that fourth offenders must receive life sentences has found an echo in other States which have followed the New York example. Supporters of this change emphasize prison riots as due to the hopelessness of such prisoners, and also point out that prison terms are essentially meant to reform.

Criticizing, however, the recommendation by the State Senator that it is possible to order parole "even for fourth offenders sent up for life" the CLEVELAND NEWS finds some defects in the proposed change, stating: "The New York legislator would make justice catch and convict a criminal five times before putting him away permanently, thought it often proves unable to do that even once. 'State control' has not proved very efficient in deterring paroled prisoners from further offending. The parole system has been instrumental in bringing on the present reign of crime. America's task now is suppressing lawlessness, not encouraging it still further."

Study of the matter is made also by the KALAMAZOO GAZETTE, "Michigan's habitual criminal act," argues that, paper, "reasons that Baumes law in many respects, but thus far it does not appear to have aroused the wave of opposition that has been noted in New York ever since the mandatory sentence plan became effective. New York's experience, however, clearly illustrates the contention that efforts to deal severely with lawbreakers can sometimes be carried so far as to defeat their own purpose. Prison riots like those at Auburn have no doubt played their part in convincing many Empire citizens that a great increase in the number of life-term convicts may prove more injurious than helpful to the cause of public safety."

Belief that the proposed change "will be welcomed as a step toward modifying these laws with the necessary flexibility" is voiced by the ASBURY PARK PRESS, which is convinced that modification "will answer the most pertinent objections that have been hurled against them. It is generally admitted," continues the Press "that in the majority of cases life imprisonment is none too severe for those convicted of four major offenses, although numerous instances have arisen when clemency appeared justified. Under the present system the sole power of extending parole lies in the hands of the governor, who because of the pressure of executive duties, is seldom able to give proper consideration to the innumerable requests for mercy that come before him. Senator Baumes therefore suggests that the power of granting a commutation of sentence be placed with the parole board, an agency locally empowered with the disposition of such cases. Under his plan the prisoner, even though his sentences were commuted by the board, would first be compelled to serve the usual sentence that would have been imposed had he not been a fourth offender. Thereafter, his application for clemency would rest with the board."

"Perhaps Senator Baumes has been in a better position than anyone else to observe the effects of his original enactment," says the NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PIGAYUNE, observing also that "the Senator's associates on the State Crime Commission are not satisfied that the enactment should be perpetuated in its present form." That paper adds that "this revised enactment will be designed to go along with the sweeping extension of the State parole system, the latter built around the policy of Governor Roosevelt in commuting sentences while making it clear that the commutation is in no sense a pardon." Quoting the State Commissioner of Correction to the effect that "the law is arbitrary" the NEW YORK TIMES comments: "There may come a day when even lesser offenders of some types may spend the rest of their days in jail. But that day is far off. We must first learn a great deal more about the criminal mind than we know today, and be able to say with assurance, "This man has a chance to reform; that man is certain to return to a life of crime." The incorrigibles may have to be kept permanently behind prison walls. Meanwhile, the best plan is probably neither compulsory life imprisonment nor complete freedom at the end of a shorter term, but control, first in prison and then through parole. The whole parole system of this State has recently been rehabilitated, and may prove an aid to the solution of many of our penal problems.

"Error of making vengeance the objective of law" is suggested by the ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS, as it endorses the new Baumes plan as "restoring flexibility to a law which is now immutable." The DAYTON DAILY NEWS states: "Not only did the existing laws fall short of their objective, but judges could exercise no discretion in cases obviously suggesting clemency. From one extreme the state had jumped to another. New York is seeking its way now to a medium and more logical course."

"The new plan" according to the CHARLESTON DAILY MAIL, "if carried through, will, of course, take most of the teeth out of the Baumes Law. Should an effective parole system be provided, however, the same ends as those aimed at in the original act, might be attained. A general parole plan is being framed by the crime commission under which the state always would have supervision over a person convicted of a felony more than once."

Emphasizing the conclusion that "the purpose of prisons is as much to reclaim offenders as to punish them," the YOUNGSTOWN VINDICATOR remarks that "several other States, notably New Jersey, followed the example of New York, which finds that its drastic laws have not worked as hoped for."

In defense of the proposed enactments, the WORCESTER EVENING GAZETTE maintains that their support is "encouraging." That paper says: "New York's Baumes laws have been vigorously condemned by enlightened students of modern penology. Making a life sentence mandatory for fourth offenders, the set up two assumptions as a basis for dealing with criminals. One assumption is that four convictions for felony constitute sufficient evidence that the person convicted is a 'confirmed' criminal. The other is that judges lack either the intelligence or the probity to fix a just sentence for fourth offenders. Both assumptions are false. There are many first offenders who are a menace to society and ought not to be at large. And the application of the Baumes laws has shown plenty of fourth offenders who had no anti-social tendencies and were being locked up for life because of crimes that deserved to rank as misdemeanors."

According to available statistics the oldest case on record in any insurance company in the United States or Europe is that of a policyholder who lived to be 106.

SUPPER-TIME

The fire is 'neath the kettle And the steak is in the pan. Now a man is coming both hard Who'll eat 'em when day began;

And a woman hums a ditty As she brings the dishes out. Once again it's time for supper. All the nation round about.

The pie is in the oven And it's time to brew the tea. Come the children to the kitchen Just as hungry as can be.

All this merry nation over Wheresoever you may roam, It is time once more for supper And the men are coming home.

Though some there are like breakfast And some the noon-day fare, I choose the evening supper When I am done with care.

For love has set the table And made the meal complete. And every bite is seasoned With mirth and laughter sweet.

From countless humble chimneys Smoke columns curl and climb, Proclaiming, nation over, That it is supper-time.

And on the streets and pathways Where falls the evening gloam, The tired and hungry fathers Again are coming home.

Alumni Meet Here Tonight

Large Gathering Of Westminster College Adherents
At The Castleton

COMING FROM MANY POINTS IN DISTRICT

Tonight at 6:30 in The Castleton Hotel, alumni and former students of Westminster College from Pittsburgh, Mercer county, Lawrence county, Butler county, and Ohio will gather for the purpose of discussing reorganization plans set going at the alumni meeting in June.

Dr. S. E. Calhoun, New Wilmington, president of the alumni, stated yesterday that 100 men have been invited to the meeting and each was asked to bring other alumni and former students to the banquet. Copies of the new constitution and by-laws of The Westminster College Society, as the alumni will be known, have been mailed a large group of graduates. This feature of the new organization will come up for discussion following the banquet.

The meeting tonight in The Castleton is the second in a series of three to get the alumni and former students of the college organized into a workable group. So much interest has been shown by alumni replying to invitations sent out by Dr. Calhoun that the meeting tonight should be one of the best in the history of Westminster graduates.

On homecoming day, October 11, when Allegheny college will be met in football, the final organization meeting of the alumni will be held at the college. At this time the permanent organization to be planned tonight will start operation.

DENVER, Sept. 12.—"Sedale" sounds more like a place to picnic on a Sunday afternoon than "Starbuck" does. A month ago residents of a resort near Denver held a meeting and decided to change the name of their town.

The change in name became official when it was recorded in the files of the post office department. The town was named Starbuck years ago in honor of one of the first settlers, who until recently owned property in the resort.

Second Artificial Lake Will Be Built At State Game Farm, Says Sines

In the early part of October, H. J. Sines, official in charge of the Jordan State Game Farm near Harlansburg, expects to start work on a second lake at the entrance to the farm.

Last year, Mr. Sines and his son superintended the making of a beautiful artificial lake to the right of the entrance of the Game Farm. A small island was built in the center of the lake and in the Spring nasturtiums and red tropical cannaes were planted on it. Around the lake nasturtiums were planted, surrounded by a lawn of clover.

The delightful appearance of the lake is great enough reward for the many hours of labor that it required. And now there will be a second lake, to the left of the entrance. With the completion of this next proposed lake, the Jordan State Game Farm will undoubtedly be the prettiest appearing spot in this part of the country.

Not only have thousands of visitors at the farm marveled at it, but wild ducks have shown a strong liking for the pretty lake. At the present time there are two "wild" ducks basking in the sun-light and paddling around on the fresh waters of the lake. During the summer flocks of ten or fifteen ducks could often times be seen enjoying life on the lake. In the Spring a pretty little wood duck made the lake its home for a while, according to Mr. Sines.

The two ducks occupying the lake at the present time seem quite contented to stay. A week ago they almost decided to leave when they saw the rather frisky "Trixie" a recent canine addition to the farm, running around after his tail. But they have become accustomed to the pup and seem to think him interesting now.

The ducks are kept supplied with food, and what more could a duck ask?

It is probable that next summer more wild ducks will make this lake and the new one their homes.

Game Commissioners dumped several allotments of trout into the lake some months ago. The fish and the tadpoles that have now become frogs, agree with the ducks and the thousands of Game Farm visitors, that the lake is perfect.

THE CURE BEGINS IN THE KITCHEN

So many people suffer from constipation. It steals health and happiness. They spend millions of dollars yearly on pills and drugs.

That's the wrong way to try to cure constipation. The right way is to correct the diet—to add enough roughage to your food to sweep the poisons out of your system.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to do this. You'll enjoy it as a ready-to-eat cereal, with milk or cream. A delicious food for maintaining health.

Use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also for making bran muffins and breads. Adds a pleasant, nut-like flavor to omelets, soups, salads. At all grocers in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

to 1,800 times the size of its brothers, which is the difference in size between some electrons and protons. But you need not be ashamed of your ignorance. Professors that applauded Dr. Dirac's announcement admit that nine out of 10 would find his announcement too deep for them. It contains relativity, and the quantum theory, which is saying enough.

More important to millions of women than the scientific discovery about the atom's proton is another discovery reported to the American Chemical Society yesterday by Dr. MacArthur, of the University of Buffalo. He finds that one of the three sections of the pituitary gland contains a third hitherto unknown hormone, which affects "pigmentation." Thus the pituitary gland, which has so much to do with mental capacity, may also control the complexion.

Years ago, when Mr. Edison and others began experimenting with various woods and busses, seeking a source of rubber here at home, it was suggested here that long before the experiments could amount to anything, some chemist would make a brand of rubber from petroleum independent of all vegetation.

Now Dr. Burgess, director of the Bureau of Standards in Washington, announces that rubber crystals have been produced from petroleum, under the direction of Dr. Washburn, head of the chemical laboratory.

These cautious scientists confine themselves to hoping that these experiments "may be of use to the commercial world." They may indeed.

The rubber tree may in a few years, be as unnecessary as the little female cochineal insect that once provided the world with scarlet, or the marine creatures that provided a beautiful purple before aniline dyes were produced.

Incidentally, rubber made from petroleum, accompanied by another automobile boom, would help take care of our so-called "oil surplus."

If you find an oil well that nobody can tap, and drain it, take care of it, and some day it will take care of you.

Richard Whitney, president of the New York Stock Exchange, says the country is getting back on a firm business basis, and that the stock exchange was in no way responsible for the slump, unemployment, etc.

The latter statement is sound. The stock exchange and the ticker reflect, but do not create conditions. The wave of stock gambling, wasting the time of able men, and scattering the money of fools, caused trouble, but that is not the fault of the exchange.

Frank Kiernan in New York has distributed fifteen hundred little buttons, carrying in white letters: "Business Is Good."

Mr. Kiernan, an advertising man, believes that if you say a thing often enough, people will believe it.

They will, if it is true. One of the big "bears" of the New York Stock Exchange had one of the buttons fastened to his coat. He had reasons for wearing it.

Flappers Tell What's Best In Life

(International News Service)
SIDNEY, Sept. 12.—Here are the ten best things in life, according to a poll undertaken among flappers of this Australian city.

A winter's night and a comfortable chair, beside a cosy fire, rain plattering on the roof, a thrilling romance, and a box of candy.

The gift of a little runabout, and enough money to keep it going.

A trip to England in a big liner with plenty of good dancers aboard.

A house party at the seashore with plenty of surfing and parties.

To be an only child and not have younger brothers and sisters bothering about.

Doing Sydney with lovely clothes.

To be Amy Johnson (intrepid English aviatrix who flew solo from England to Australia) while she was in Sydney.

To be able to sing like a night-tingale and thrill thousands.

For the most adorable man in the world to ask me to marry him.

Mother, when she's pleased with me.

One of these planes can be garaged for a little over fifteen dollars a month, while oiling and greasing only costs a dollar.

OUT FROM UNDER
How well your husband sings. One trembles before the elemental strength of his voice.

Local Women Learn Soap and Hard Water Will Not Cleanse

Just add this new water-softening cleanser for amazing results—requires 1/2 the time, 1/4 the soap . . .

THIS city's water is too hard for the best washing results. Clothes become faded and "gray" with repeated washing in this hard water. The best soap is not effective.

Local housewives are turning to a new discovery that gives almost magic results in any washing. It is not a soap—but a water-softening cleanser that changes "hard" water to "soft"—stops fading—cuts washing time in half and requires only one-half the ordinary amount of soap.

What It Is

It is a preparation called Climalene that you add to your washing water. Just a tablespoon or two.

Instantly, it takes all the harshness out of that water. Makes it soft as rain water.

At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly DISSOLVES all dirt, stains and grime.

Use the soap or soap flakes you ordinarily do. Then see for yourself the amazing results. During 1929 women used over 24,000,000 packages of Climalene—for washing, for cleaning and in the dishpan.

Laboratory Proved
To assure results to you, we buy fine things, lingerie and delicate fabrics, fine china. Then by repeated washings, try to spoil or fade them.

Consider, please, what those things mean to you. Consider, too, that the minute you put this creation into water, all harshness is taken away—your hands protected from roughness, made soft, smooth and white.

Remember the name—Climalene. Your grocer has it. Sold only in 10c and 25c packages.

Three Carloads Of Beer Seized

(BULLETIN) (International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12.—Three carloads of alleged high-powered beer were seized in the Reading railway yards at Front street and Allegheny avenue today by U. S. prohibition agents.

The huge seizure is one of the largest in the city since Commander John D. Pennington, of Pittsburgh, succeeded Col. Samuel O. Wynne as head of the federal prohibition staff for this district. There were 600 barrels of beer in the three cars. The shipment was bound for Camden.

LITTLE MORE EFFORT WILL ASSURE CHAIR

Friends Of The Helpless Are Urged To Make Their Gifts At Once

Friends of the helpless cripple, Clarence Fere, who is in need of a new wheel chair in order to continue his effort to make a living and be independent by selling papers, were slightly more numerous in the past twenty-four hours than for some time. Fifteen of them came to the front and gave a dollar each. Just ninety-three more gifts of a dollar will assure the chair to this man, who is paralyzed and unable to walk and is trying to make his own living. Surely there are ninety-three such persons still remaining in New Castle and it is hoped that they will leave their dollar at once with Jacob F. Rentz at The News office.

"BETTER MEAT" FOR SCHOOL CHILDREN

With the fall term of school again here, especial care should be taken by fond parents to see that their kiddies get the proper nourishment while attending school. Improper diet robs the child of much needed nourishment and this, above all, should be avoided, because the boy or girl attending school should have as much strength and vitality as is possible. To attain this result serve only "better meat" at future meals—meat that is both tasty and delicious.

And for those parents who make up a dainty luncheon for their children who are unable to get home during the noon recess for a warm meal, we suggest that you visit our market to purchase your cold cuts, fresh vegetables and fruits.

Fire Station Slide Poles Still Attract The Curious

Sliding poles in New Castle fire stations continue to prove one of the most interesting attractions that the firemen have to offer visitors, after the trucks have received a thorough inspection.

The nine poles in the city stations, two of them at central station, are still being used in the manner of the olden days when the speed at which a fireman slid down one made him a hero to boys on the street.

Poles that connect the station floors with the firemen's living quarters average 12 to 14 feet in height. Contrary to public belief the poles are not greased.

There are still some firemen at the stations who do not use the poles.

While they save time to the fire fighters, they have been held dangerous. Fire Chief Charles H. Lynn was among the locals who once was injured while ascending a pole. The late William Crowe, who was a fireman at No. 3 station, received a back injury while sliding. Years ago Duke Byers was hurt after reaching the ground floor at central station.

The practice of placing heavy shock reducing mats at the bottom has been tabooed by the New Castle fire department. Placement of the mats resulted in accidents. Firemen who were firm in believing that the shock lessened when their feet hit the mats would sustain injuries when they alighted off the circular mats.

Freight Shippers Scan Estimates

Freight Requirements For October, November And December Are Studied

(International News Service)

WHEELING, W. Va., Sept. 12.—Freight shippers today were considering estimates that freight requirements for October, November and December in northern West Virginia, western Pennsylvania, western Maryland and eastern Ohio will approximate 93.5 per cent of car loadings for the corresponding period last year.

Estimates were submitted yesterday at a meeting of the Allegheny regional advisory board here.

Information secured from questionnaires sent out by 27 commodity committees of the organization to practically every large shipper in the region was used as a basis for the calculations.

Automobile and parts, by-products, coke, enamelware, gravel, petroleum, rubber and stone were among the commodities for which increased shipments were expected by the board over the same period for 1929.

General business conditions were reported as "fair" throughout the district, with liquidation satisfactory, by the banking committee.

The board will meet again here in December.

Motors Now Used By Bedouin Tribes

Caravans Of Automobiles

Behind the cold statistics of the Department of Labor is a strange and colorful human drama. The old ways of giving way before the new. And so on that narrow strip between the desert and the town, where the lonely nomad for centuries past has driven his camels and followed the scattered leaves of grass, with the sun ever at his back forcing him to wander in search of food and water, the camel, with its poetry and history gathered around it, is giving way before the militant progress of the motor. Little is heard of these regions, and in the trade journals they figure not at all, yet here it is that the East and West clash almost severely, says the New York World.

Nowhere is this more true than on the margins of Holy Arabia, one of the last strongholds of the primitive. It has been visited by a mere handful of Westerners, and these have been either envoys of Western nations to its fanatic potentates, or daring explorers who have risked all in the inhospitable land. For only true believers in the faith of Mahomet are welcome in this holy pale.

West Makes Inroads
But since the war, and even before it, in some cases, the West, with the scientific and technical achievements, has been making inroads into the barren fastness of this peninsula. Cutting through the desert are the narrow steel rails of the Turkey's strategic railroad—the Hejaz Railroad—nominally built to facilitate the pilgrims on their way to the sacred shrines of Islam, but in reality a military necessity in the co-ordination of the former, empire of the Sublime Porte. The struggle for the control of this line rivals even that of the Siberian railroad. It is now the prize of Ibn Saud, the aggressive King of Nejd.

Over Northern Arabia the planes of the Royal Air Ways drone wearily, en route to India, and between Damascus and Bagdad long caravans of automobiles speed passengers and mails and have entirely supplanted the slow-moving camel. The larger cities buzz and streek with the sound of motors, and buses carry the peasants between their squalid villages.

When Ibn Saud of Nejd decided to provide himself with a car, he cast about for some time trying to decide which one of his subjects was best fitted to make the choice—which one of his long-robed Bedouins was best fitted to appraise the value of the car, and make certain that his King was not being cheated by a Levantine sharper.

After much deliberation a blacksmith of Hail was chosen, and with two ministers of state was sent to Amman, near the Palestine frontier, where the purchase was to be made. The poor smith was like a child with a new toy. He had never seen a car before. His first ride frightened him. His second was a thrill, but what he enjoyed most was the reflection of his own face in the polish of the black enamel.

He bought cars for Ibn Saud, which, driven by swarthy Arabs, went off over the high plateau toward Hail, the distant capital in the heart of Arabia.

But among the lesser people, too, among the ordinary Bedouins, the same interesting development is taking place. They also are interested in automobiles. Just as the gypsies of America gave up their caravans for the car, so the Bedouin seems to consider deserting the camel wherever the country makes the new type of travel possible.

Detroit Musicians Plan For Strike

Detroit Movie Musicians Plan
Walkouts If Demands Are Not Granted

(International News Service)
DETROIT, Sept. 12.—The Detroit Federation of Musicians, meeting early today, voted an immediate strike to enforce the operators of four Detroit movie houses to retain orchestras and stage bands at their present strength. Action of the local union follows similar walkouts in St. Louis, Washington and Philadelphia.

None of the theaters affected will use orchestras today unless a compromise is reached before opening time. Complete paralysis of operations is threatened, however, according to federation leaders who declare stage hands and machine projectionists will follow the musicians in two weeks in a sympathy strike if no agreement is reached.

If all the musicians were retained, theater operators declare, it would be necessary to increase admission to operate successfully.

Italian Laborers Worry France

(International News Service)
PARIS, Sept. 12.—Italian laborers in France have become so numerous and have yet remained so unassimilated that the French are waking up to the fact that this country has an immigration problem on its hands. While these laborers are in many ways desirable in districts of France where native laborers are scarce, they remain undesirable because of their intense patriotism. They stay only long enough to make a certain amount of money to take back to their own country, they buy their stores from their own countrymen, give their entire allegiance to Italy, and only use France as a provider of money. Italy itself has very rigid laws to protect itself from any foreign laborers from France or elsewhere. A movement is now being suggested to raise a similar barrier in France against Italians.

Soviet Agents
To Visit America

MOSCOW, Sept. 12.—Fifteen of the best field agents of the Soviet Grain Trust will get free trips to the United States this fall to study grain farming as reward for meritorious service in the spring sowing campaign.

Forty five others were given cash rewards of 100 rubles each. The agents obtained extensions of the grain cultivation area far beyond the five year plan proposals in their respective districts.

Thinks Women Will Sit In House Of Lords

(International News Service)
LONDON, Sept. 12.—"I am perfectly confident that in a few years' time women will be sitting in the House of Lords," says Lady Rhonda, who, besides being one of the biggest of Britain's commercial magnates, is also one of the 19 British peeresses in their own right.

Lady Rhonda made this remark after the House of Lords had turned down Lord Astor's motion to admit peeresses by four votes.

"It is perfectly absurd that women can sit in the House of Commons and not in the House of Lords," she added. "One can only suppose that the peers want to keep their club to themselves as long as possible."

Nevertheless there are signs that the House of Lords is coming into line with public opinion. To be beaten by four votes only is very encouraging.

"I was very pleased with the attitude of the Labor Peers. As Lord Parmoor said, they were solidly in favor of the reform. On the whole, I am satisfied. Things are moving."

Educator Sees Less Drinking In Colleges

(International News Service)
SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 12.—Drinking among students is only about one per cent as heavy as it was a quarter of a century ago, in the opinion of Dr. Alexander G. Ruthven, president of the University of Michigan, who made known his views at a meeting of Utah alumni of the institution recently.

This statement from Dr. Ruthven comes as a marked surprise following the prohibition poll that was carried out at Yale, Harvard, Princeton and Dartmouth, and a number of other eastern schools last year, which showed that well over half of the students drank, the greater number at regular and far from infrequent intervals.

Using the University of Michigan as a representative institution of higher learning, Dr. Ruthven declared that he is convinced that the morals of students are on a much higher plane than ever before. Dr. Ruthven expressed himself as heartily in favor of co-education.

Indian Found Iron Ore,
Lost Title To Land

Chief Marji Gezik In 1846 Led
Company's Prospectors To
Michigan Deposits

Buried in reports of the Michigan Supreme Court for the last six months of 1882 lies an interesting chapter in the early history of the iron mining industry of the Lake Superior region, says the Milwaukee Journal.

As a court record it is the findings in the case of Jeremy Compo versus the Jackson Iron Company. An Indian chief named Marji Gezik in 1846 led a party of Jackson men to a spot on the side of Jackson Mountains, where he showed them an outcrop of iron ore he had discovered. The discovery of iron ore in the Lake Superior region is generally attributed to Marji Gezik and a stone monument now marks the site.

For having made known to them the location of the ore body, which they later developed into the first iron mine in this territory, the officers of the Jackson Mining Company agreed to give Marji Gezik twelve undivided thirty-one hundredths of the interest of the company on Location 593. This agreement was dated May 30, 1846.

Marji Gezik died about 1862 and the certificate of agreement fell into the hands of a daughter, Charlotte Kawabagam, wife of Chief Charlie Kawabagam, Marquette's patron Indian brave. She in turn, assigned the certificate, in 1879, to Jeremy Compo, who brought suit to enforce the claim. The case was appealed to the State Supreme Court following an unfavorable decision in Marquette county Circuit Court. The bill to establish title eventually was dismissed by the Supreme Court on the ground that the assignee had not made out an exclusive title by descent and that the claim was barred by lapse of time.

Indian Found Iron Ore,

Chief Marji Gezik In 1846 Led
Company's Prospectors To
Michigan Deposits

Buried in reports of the Michigan Supreme Court for the last six months of 1882 lies an interesting chapter in the early history of the iron mining industry of the Lake Superior region, says the Milwaukee Journal.

As a court record it is the findings in the case of Jeremy Compo versus the Jackson Iron Company. An Indian chief named Marji Gezik in 1846 led a party of Jackson men to a spot on the side of Jackson Mountains, where

Coal Problems Are Discussed

Coal Division Of American Institute Of Mining Discusses Coal Problems

INSPECTION TOUR
PLANNED TODAY

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 12.—Problems involved in the preparation of anthracite and bituminous coal were discussed at the sessions of the three-day convention of the coal division of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers here today.

Practically the entire first day's session was consumed with discussions of the various problems of the coal mining industry. Yesterday's sessions were featured by an address by Secretary of Labor James J. Davis who warned the delegates not to engage in price-cutting fights tending toward wage-cutting and less employment.

Howard N. Eavenson, chairman, formally opened the convention. Paul Sterling, Wilkes-Barre, presided at the morning sessions and C. M. Linggle, Newcomer, at the afternoon meeting.

Major Kenelm C. Appleyard, managing director of the Birtley Iron Company, at Birtley, England, gave a comprehensive description of dry coal separation in England and Europe. Other speakers included John F. McLaughlin, Scranton; Edgar Schweitzer, C. A. Connell, Philadelphia; D. R. Mitchell of the University of Illinois; Ray W. Arms, Chicago; and B. M. Bird, Columbus, O.

An inspection tour of local coal mines and industrial plants is scheduled to conclude the sessions tomorrow.

PARIS AUTHORS TO WRITE BOOKS ANONYMOUSLY

By RUTH JANE WILLIAMS
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

PARIS, Sept. 12.—Books without authors are about to be launched here.

For authors with a new and unexpected virtue—modesty—have proved to exist. They are willing to have their books published anonymously—and have become contributors to a new publishing house which will put out only anonymous works.

This new establishment is the venture of two Paris Americans, who are also to remain anonymous.

"Authors of today are forced to put themselves over—instead of putting the books across. It has become a matter of salesmanship and personality rather than of writing to be a popular writer," explained the founders of this new movement toward namelessness.

"The reader of a book anonymous—why shouldn't the author be the same? Let his work be judged for its self alone—not on a best-selling name or the lack of it."

The exponents of this new cult believe that it is only having its beginning in the field of literature—that it will spread and enter all other creative fields in time.

Virginia Has Saved Rare Old Ballads

Songs Brought Over By First Settlers Are Collected In Bound Volume

The results of the Virginia Folklore Society, founded at Richmond in 1913 "to discover, collect, publish and thus preserve the folklore of Virginia and the States recruited from Virginia," are to be found in the pages of the volume, "Traditional Ballads of Virginia," published by the Harvard University Press. Arthur Kyle Davis, Jr., associate professor of English in the University of Virginia, editor.

The immediate object of the society was "to preserve the words and music of the English and Scottish ballads that have drifted across with our first settlers and that have been transmitted from century to century by oral tradition."

Of the 305 ballads recognized by Francis James Child in his five-volume work, "The English and Scottish Ballads," 51 have been found in Virginia. Of these, there were found 50 variants. Professor Davis includes 440 versions in his book and added 148 different musical settings.

Of "Barbara Allen," 92 variants were discovered and 36 published with 12 musical settings. There are 29 variations of "James Harris," with seven musical accompaniments, and 25 of "The Maid Freed From the Gallows," with five different song settings.

Every county in Virginia, whether in tidewater, Piedmont or mountain section, yielded its quota of ballads, though the number from the non-mountain counties was comparatively small.—Christian Science Monitor.

Postpones Sailing Here From Wales

Mrs. Thos. D. Richards Is Delayed In Starting For New Castle — Welsh News Notes

(By WM. A. JOHNS BRYTHON)
Mrs. John Evans, of Mill street, received a letter last week from her sister-in-law, Mrs. Thomas D. Richards at Llanelly, telling that she was going to sail from Liverpool for the United States on August 30 and that she would be home on the 9th of this month. But yesterday a letter came from the sister of Mrs. Richards, telling that she was ill in bed so she had to postpone her sailing to a future time and this made the family feel very sad.

Mrs. John Evans and her daughter, Nettie, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Richards went over to Warren to console her brother, Tom Richards, who has been ill over two months. The sad news came to him at the present time. The friends are hoping for the best for Mrs. Richards and that she will be united with her family in the near future.

Evan Roberts, the great Billy Sunday of Wales, who was the leader of the Welsh people in the 1906 revival in Wales, is again in public speaking and singing and at the Llanelly Elsteddod he made a wonderful speech. He said in part that another revival will come upon the people of Wales and England and bigger and greater than the one in 1906. He said that the great God will visit the people at that time with great power and effect and the best people of Wales ready to say amen with these good news.

The members of the Emmanuel Baptist church are looking on with great delight to the coming of Rev. D. Gwyn Evans, Plymouth, Pa., to fill the pulpit for two Sundays, September 16 and 21. He is a wonderful preacher and no doubt many hundreds of friends will attend the service on the above Sundays.

No doubt that a great crowd of people will attend the concert given by the well known singer, Mrs. Sue Harvard Armstrong, the nightingale of America, at the beautiful building, the Cathedral, this month. The nightingale is always a favorite singer at our city, been brought up here and started her career as a singer in our city. So she is an exception to the old saying that a prophet is not honored in his own city, but her name is dear and near to the hearts of the people of New Castle and a large amount of people will welcome her every time she will sing at her own city. So all the people will be flocking to the Cathedral the night she will sing.

Very sad news is still coming from Wales—business is very slow over there. The great depression in trade has effect on the tin plate business and also the mines, so some of the mines that have been working for 50 and 60 years have been closed down. One of these coal mines is the copper pit at Morriston and six hundred workmen have been thrown out of employment.

The health of Rev. Edwin Aubrey, of Oak Park, Chicago, Ill., is very poor. Rev. Aubrey and his wife are well known in this city. Mrs. Aubrey being the sister of the late John Evans of S. Mill street, and they visited our city many times. Rev. Aubrey preached at the First Congregational church, the Emmanuel church and the First Baptist church of the city, so the New Castle people are in sympathy with Rev. Aubrey and family in his long illness.

After the death of the friend, John Evans, the minute book of the Old Welsh Baptists association of Western Pennsylvania and Eastern Ohio, came to the hand of the writer. The first secretary of the association was the late Rev. J. T. Lloyd, of Youngstown, O., father of Rev. Joseph Lloyd, Youngstown, and the last secretary was our dear old friend, Thomas Edwards, Pico, California, and if any one that is interested in this minute book would like to see it, he will have it at once.

100,000 In U. S. Work At Pony Golf Courses

25,000 Believed In Operation;
Government Studies Winter Possibilities

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The Department of Commerce today started a canvass with a view to putting the miniature golf course under "the big top" for the winter. Regional offices will take an informal census of the courses, together with some statement of possibilities of cold weather operation.

The department's committee on new uses for cotton cloth believes a tremendous total of tarpaulin would be needed to cover the estimated 25,000 courses. Officials said the industry probably employs 100,000 persons, besides the carpenters, painters and plumbers that install them.

Alaskan Railroad Plans Cause Federal Dissension

(International News Service)

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Sept. 12.—Evidence of a conflict between the executive and legislative branches of the government loomed today in the large number of investigators that had been dispatched to the railroad zone in advance of the senatorial party that probed the Alaska railroad, and an announcement by Governor William Sulzer of New York that President Hoover had assured him that the greatest era of development Alaska had ever known would be launched in the near future.

According to Sulzer, the plans call for extension of the Chitkaoon coal spur 150 miles from the White River copper fields, pronounced the greatest in the world and which are capable of supplying a tonnage sufficient to make the railroad self-sustaining.

This would bring into use the Matanuska coking coal for smelting at Tidewater, Anchorage, where the railroad docks are being used for canneries. Further developments call for a spur into the Kantishna gold, silver, copper and lead region 60 miles west of the present railroad.

This spur would pass through McKinley park and also supply a link for shipping from Kuskokwim country via Seward to the United States.

The Stephen B. Capps geological survey in making extensive examinations of the long deposits along the railroad for the purpose of locating tonnage for a third extension, is toward the shores of Bering straits tapping oil fields north of Brooks range. It will terminate eventually 55 miles from Siberia railroads now penetrating Siberia and making an international highway route that eventually would become the route of a railroad through Alaska and Canada.

Investigators, it was reported, oppose any curtailment of the railroad, and were inclined to favor the program as announced by Sulzer on his arrival with the senatorial party.

During the investigations every settlement in the railroad belt were represented by spokesmen who presented voluminous evidence to show that the condition of the railroad was due bureaucratic restrictions and lack of a comprehensive development policy from Washington, D. C.

General Pershing Will Be 70 Years Old On Saturday

American Commander During Late World War Is Quite Vigorous For His Age

IS WORKING ON WAR MEMOIRS

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff
Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—General John J. Pershing, America's greatest living military figure, will be 70 years old tomorrow. The day finds him in splendid health, busy engaged in a half dozen tasks and still planning future labors.

The commander-in-chief of the American Expeditionary forces in the World War has retired from the army but he refuses to retire from an active life.

Will Continue Work
As he begins his 70th year he will continue work on his war memoirs, consider problems of the battle monuments commission, give attention to the campaign for funds for the monumental episcopal cathedral here and perhaps walk a couple of miles for exercise.

Thoughts of the famous military leader may revert to the humble home in Linn county, Missouri, where he was born on September 13, 1860. His nursing may carry him back to France, where 12 years ago he was viewing the results of his greatest military triumph—the St. Mihiel drive.

St. Mihiel, the first important military engagement in France by an exclusively American army, opened on September 12, 1918. Within 24 hours the indomitable American forces had pinched off a German salient which long had been a thorn in the sides of the allies.

The victory was a great goal of Gen. Pershing. It was proof that an American army, led by American generals, could do where other allied troops had failed.

Is Quite Vigorous
Although General Pershing's generalissimo of the allied forces, General Haig, famous British commander, and other great military figures of the World War, have passed on, General Pershing is declared by his close friends to be as vigorous as a man 20 years his junior.

His greatest task just now is completing his war memoirs, on which he has been working for years. They are expected to reveal many of the conflicts between the allied leaders and give the general's own story of how he fought to keep the American army an integral unit.

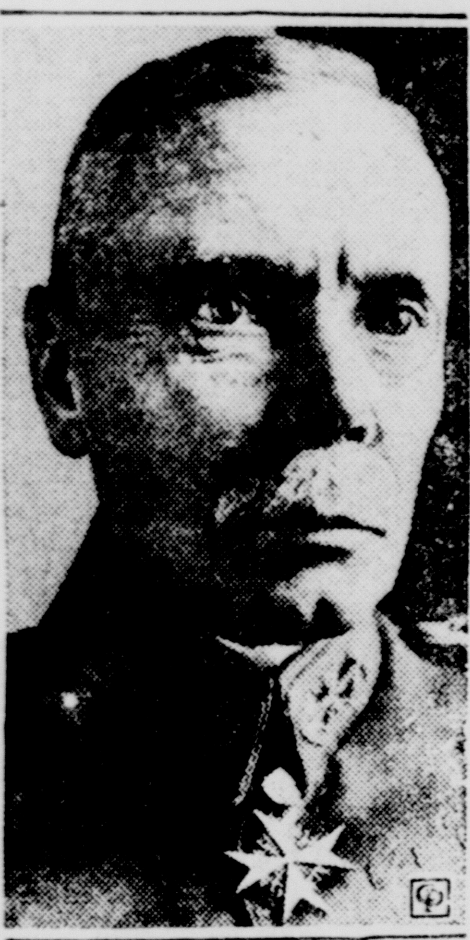

General Pershing lives quietly in the exclusive Metropolitan Club of Washington, although he has always enjoyed social contacts. His engagements have been markedly reduced in the last few years.

Formerly a great rider, his chief exercise now is walking. One of his favorite walks is along the Potomac River near the Lincoln Memorial.

A friend who accompanied him on a "hike" says the general walks "as if he were going some place." He has a firm military stride, and walks so rapidly he frequently tires out younger men.

Gen. Pershing has taken great interest in the preservation of American cemeteries in France and the erection of fitting memorials in both France and England.

Hopes for Kaiser

Col. Gen. von Seeckt, former head of the German Republican army, has announced his intention of running for the reichstag on a platform which would allow the return of the former Kaiser Wilhelm. Von Seeckt was retired five years ago because of his monarchistic ideas.

St. John's Pastor Home From Abroad

Rev. and Mrs. F. E. Stough Return After Extended European Travel

Completing an extensive two months' tour of European countries and the Holy Land, the Rev. F. E. Stough, pastor of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church here arrived this week from Montreal, where he docked September 8, from his return voyage across from Havre, France.

Mrs. Stough, who accompanied her husband on the tour through European lands, but who remained with the remainder of New Castle residents when they separated from Rev. Stough at Rome, and who had been resting at the Greenville home of her parents, returned with him. Rev. Stough separated from the party to tour the Bible lands.

From Rome he headed for Naples, where two days were spent sightseeing in that historic city. Brindisi was the next stop, with Alexandria, Egypt the third stop over. Two weeks were spent in Egypt, Palestine and Syria.

Returning, Rev. Stough came by the way of the Mediterranean sea to Trieste, from which place he traveled by train to Paris. He sailed at Havre on August 30, after sojourning on foreign soils almost two months.

We had fine weather most of the way on each boat trip, the minister replied when asked what kind of a sea voyage they had. Every bit of the trip was enjoyed, and sightseeing in the foreign countries was a real treat. He also attended the Oberammergau passion play.

Rev. Stough will occupy his pulpit here next Sunday, replacing Dr. Ralph Helm of Thiel college, Greenville, who has preached in his place during his absence.

"SAVE-A-LIFE" CAMPAIGN UNDER WAY IN STATE

(Contributed)

Since the state is about to start a great inspection campaign to test the mechanical fitness of automobiles, the Pennsylvania Motor Federation through its affiliated clubs is at the same time waging a "Save-A-Life" campaign it brings the subject of safety vividly before the minds of all motorists.

Safety has been freely discussed and analyzed from all angles by motor clubs and various civic bodies. Many ideas have been advanced for the promulgation of greater safety on our highways. Signs, warning signals, traffic lights, thru traffic stop signs, and even traffic officers all do their work well, and yet the slaughter on our roads is a so great that it is becoming an economic menace to our nation. Our fatalities this year bid fair to reach 36,000 as against 31,000 last, which means doubling in seven years, and at the same rate of increase in one hundred years to reach over five-hundred thousand annually.

Safety Vital
Necessity for more action for safety is paramount. Therefore, while the state is inspecting machinery let us try to further educate the driver in this "Save-A-Life" movement. Let us impress on him that while some fifteen hundred nuts hold a machine together one "loose nut" behind the wheel is an omen of death around the corner. That the man or woman behind the wheel, because of hurry, carelessness, thoughtlessness, carelessness or intoxication bids fair to become one of the great army of those that are massacring their fellowmen by the thousands annually. The gray matter behind the wheel must at all times realize that common sense in the operation of a car is the paramount factor of safety on the road. That the old "bus" where no life nor soul, that it will go where you steer it, and just as fast as you make it. It knows nothing of intersections, curves, crest of hills or stone walls. That you and not it is responsible. That it only does what you make it do.

Of course, the pedestrians too are an element to be considered. As a second factor in safety they too in many cases need education. You can not educate them by "cussing" them. They do not always know their rights. Sometimes they try your patience to the limit. But why scarp? Better become a teacher than a prize fighter on the occasion. It will mean present peace and a future safety. Remember it is better to be sweet than belligerent. To give wise counsel than deliver blows. Legislation may in the future help solve this problem, but until then remember it is easier to educate by love than fear.

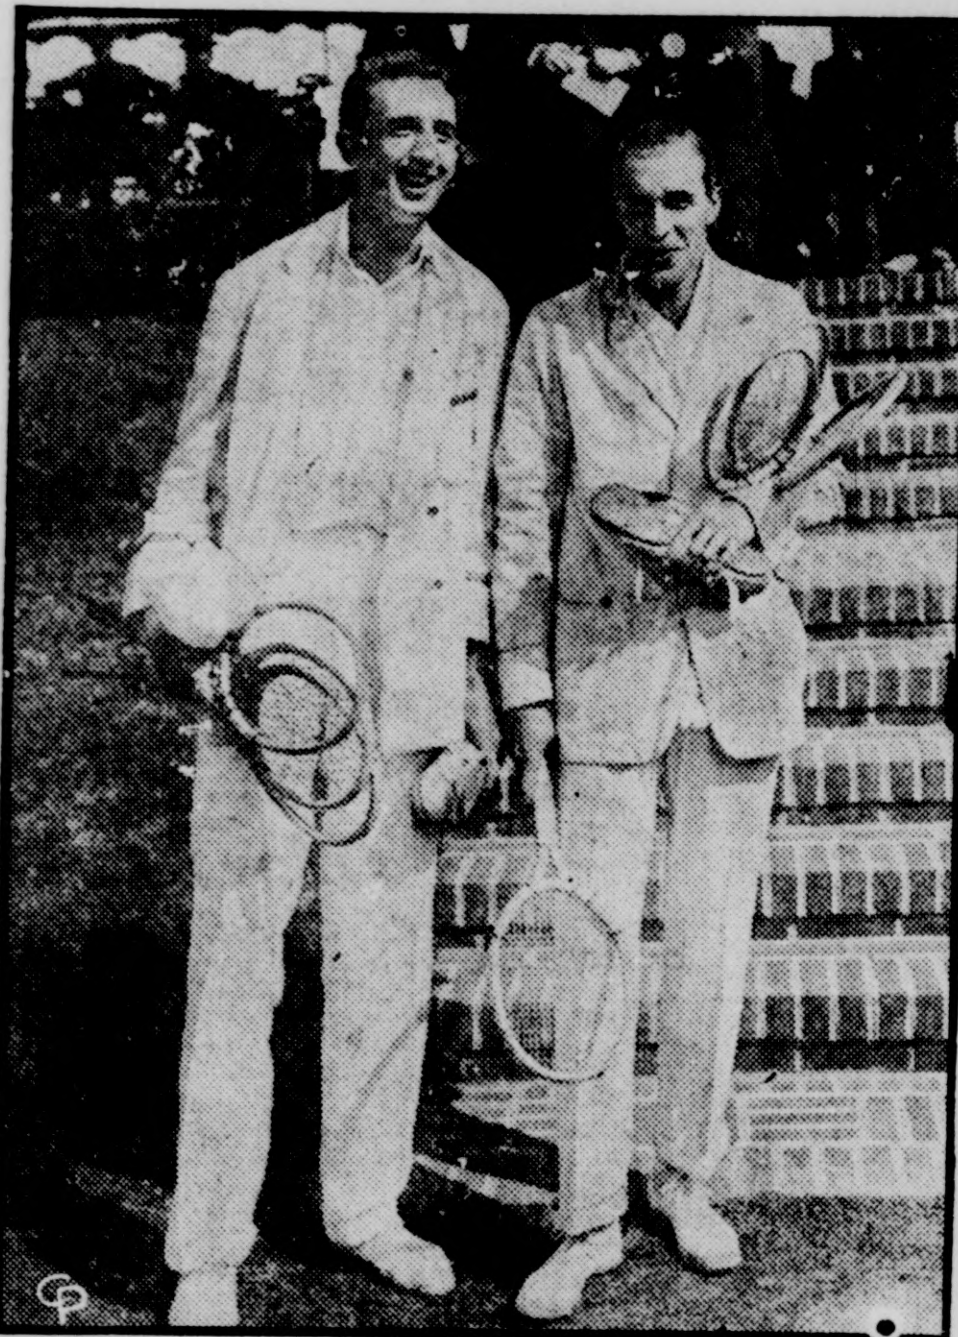

Consider Children
Children too are a third factor we must consider. They are our best crop. We must not kill them. It is our business to educate them in the principles of highway safety. Our school patrols have done marvellous work along the lines of safety. Our educators who must realize by this time that the most important word in our dictionary today is Safety, should augment this Safety work by a little more teaching of safety within the school building, and thereby help cut down this rising tide of fatalities. How to take care of your body by the teaching of hygiene is important but with the advent of the automobile the saving of a life has become equally essential.

Therefore, in this "Save-A-Life" campaign three things are to be urged:

- First: Common sense behind the wheel.
- Second: Keeping cars in good mechanical condition on the road.
- Third: More safety education.

For drivers. 2. For pedestrians. 3. For children.

Committee Named In Chicago For "Gang" Cleanup

Thirty-Three "Minute Men" Chosen To Lead Latest War On Gangsters

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Sept. 12—Thirty three "minute-men" all business and financial leaders in the community, were named today to lead the latest war against gang control and racketeering terrorism. They will be headed by a civilian leader whose power will be comparable to those of a dictator.

The new campaign to stem inroads of underworld powers on legitimate business culminated in the appointment of Col. Albert A. Sprague, former commissioner of public works, to head the committee of 33.

Sprague was named at a secret meeting of business leaders and his duties, it was understood, will be to take up the work started by the so-called "secret six" committee, the first group of citizens to direct Chicago's campaign against the gunmen.

Sprague heads a committee which includes among its personnel practically every major business and industry in the city.

In a bulletin announcing Sprague's appointment it was explained that he will henceforth be "generalissimo of Chicago's forces in behalf of law and order and back up the efforts of Robert I. Randolph and his five unknown associates who formed the 'secret six'."

Civil Service Employees Warned Of Politics

(Special to The News.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 12.—Political warfare has broken out on street corners and in assembly halls, and the United States civil service commission has decided it is high time to warn civil service workers they may not take any part in political campaigns. Hence, in the very near future posters to accomplish that end will be displayed conspicuously in federal buildings in New Castle and in every other city of the nation.

The commission has followed the practice for the past 11 years of warning classified employees and presidential appointees that they may not actively participate in political camaigns. The workers, the commission says, can vote as they wish but are restrained from publicly taking part in any campaign.

The warning poster being placed in federal buildings by the commission is signed by the commission and at the top in bold red lettering, "Warning. Several hundred words in small black type explain the activities prohibited civil service workers during the political season."

The poster explains that, among other things, such workers may not "give public expression of political views" and may not display "campaign stickers, signs or pictures on automobiles or in windows."

Russia Seeks To Stop Mass Prayers For Rain

(International News Service.)

MOSCOW, Sept. 12.—Mass prayers for rain by peasants whose crops are in danger of drying up must be stopped, agricultural newspapers demand. The protests show that this ancient Russian custom has not yet perished.

One especially flagrant "insult to intelligence" was reported from the village Petrovskoye, near Kolamna, where priests in gala robes headed a procession of several hundred peasants singing hymns into the parched fields. There they bowed their heads in prayer for half an hour. The festi-vale ended with drinking and merry-making.

The Moscow press denounced the Petrovskoye Communists and young Communists for allowing such a religious demonstration without unfolding counter propaganda directed to wards convincing peasants that there is no Lord to send rain.

Indian Youths Win Carnegie Medal

Spaniards Prefer Old Silent Films

MADRID, Sept. 12.—Old silent films, made and shown in the United States ten years ago and in some cases more, are having quite a vogue in Spain this summer.

The programs of most of the movie theaters here just now are made up of reels that Hollywood ground out long before the talkie era. This is to fill the gap until a sufficient supply of Spanish language talkies can be produced, whether in the United States or in Spain itself, to give a steady run of talkie programs to the Spanish theaters equipped for them.

Slav Claims World's Eating Championship

(International News Service.)

BELGRADE, Sept. 12.—The world's champion eater has been found. He is Vlada Savic, aged 25, native of Bosman, who has created a real sensation at Sarajevo by his tremendous feats of food consumption.

Just to win a wager he has eaten a real meal—eaten in the presence of numerous witnesses.

He ate:

17 pounds of bread.

2 pounds of roast meat.

4 pounds of uncooked oats.

30 portions of ice cream.

Savic says that, only three times in his life has he ever satisfied his hunger.

These were:

First, when a soldier, he ate a meal prepared for 25 men.

Second, when he consumed such a quantity of food that he walked from Sarajevo to Mostar (over 50 miles) and did not feel hungry until he reached Mostar; and Third, his latest performance, as stated.

Savic says that a good ordinary meal for him is 22 lb. of bread and 17 pints of water to drink.

Zuta's "loan" of $400 to a police official seems rather small, but every man should know the worth of his own honor.

If Nature really develops protective coloration, why isn't the pedestrian beginning to resemble a tack?

Connecticut Autoists Careless About Lights

(International News Service.)

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 12.—Motorists never fail to obey a traffic policeman, according to Robbins B. Stockel, commissioner of motor vehicles, but are rather careless about observing signs and traffic lights. "Drivers find it easy to stretch the green light into the yellow and go across," the commissioner finds, "and passing a red light deliberately is not uncommon."

Commissioner Stockel is also strong for the pedestrian "who is the least able to enforce his rights, having no offensive or protective armor. Because of the very defenselessness of the pedestrian, of popping past red lights, or stretching out the length of the run on any light, and of disregard of signals are serious."

Still, putting a million dollars in jail is no harder than putting a million people in.

ROAMING

With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle.

One of the snootiest places to live in New York is a pent house apartment, atop a skyscraper. The idea being, apparently, to get away from the milling mob, up where nobody is going to walk up and in unannounced.

You don't have to live atop a skyscraper to get the same effect. You can do it much cheaper, and as effectively, out around McConnell's Mills. There are some cliffs out there that would turn a mountain goat's whiskers green with envy and nobody but a crow or a bunch of corn roasters could ever get up to the one I'm thinking of, and still have all their ankles and breath left.

Charley Bruce and his wife have a sylvan flat out there. Like the sword of Damocles, it seems to hang suspended, although closer observation shows a couple of stilts which have been coaxed into the granite sides of the cliff. From the back door the cliff runs straight up, from the front porch it drops almost straight down.

But what a place! Way down below, the Slippery Rock creek goes tumbling and splashing over the rocks like a school of young whales at play, and the constant swirl and swish and gurgle of the water sounds like rain. Overhead there are stately hemlocks and spruces that have found a footing somehow in the rocky soil and their leafy tops spread out like an emerald umbrella shading the cottage from wind and sun and rain.

Getting to this "Crow's Nest" of Charley Bruce, would be an experience in broad daylight, but we had to find our way in the black of night, with a few flashlights to help out the good work. A guidebook to it would read about like this: Drive in to McConnell's Mills as far as you can and stop. Then start down the creek bank, and keep bearing towards the mountain. Walk until your dogs begin barking and then start climbing. About the time you think you are going to pass out, the cottage looms up ahead of you, like the cabin of some dirigible which is flying low. Take another handful of breath and in a last desperate attempt, scale the granite parapets and just as you think all is over, you reach the porch.

Back of the cottage up on the hillside is scenery that is beautified much by the weird effects of darkness. Take a flashlight along and see Horseshoe Falls. Stand on rock shelving that peers over into abysses and then guess what would happen if you slipped. It's just another wonder spot out along the Slippery Rock that I'd never seen, and customers that trip at night over and around those rocks was something worth while.

Only one thing spoils a trip into McConnell's Mills at the present time, and that is the road leading off the cement. If McConnell's Mills is one of the state's prettiest spots, the road is one of the state's worst. It has all the appearance of having been neglected since about the time of the Spanish War, and a good way to increase your blood pressure is to drive it. It's too bad, for the road leads into a fairy grotto.

The Grand Jury which finished its work Thursday did a nice thing. After all its fact finding, and investigating and returning of bills, the members took up a collection for the City Rescue Mission. There was a reason for this too. Tom Hinkson, tipstaff, is a friend of the Mission and on the slightest provocation will tell you what a splendid organization it is. He must have been enthusing to the Grand Jury about it, for the members took up the collection.

Or perhaps after seeing some of the offices in the court house the jury felt there should be some place to send people who had to spend any time there.

The Flower Show is over, successfully, and now the next thing to be done is to put over the Sue Harvard recital for the Jameson Memorial hospital, successfully. Success is largely a matter of thinking, and if enough people think the recital will be a success, it will be. Be one of those who think that way.

Some day, maybe, gasoline will be as cheap in New Castle as it is in adjoining cities. Took a ride over through West Middlesex, Farrell and Sharon Wednesday evening, and found that every gas station in the district was underselling gas stations here.

The highest price charged was 20 cents for motor and 23 for ethyl gas, with one station down as low as 18 for motor. The 20 and 23 cent price prevailed, which is one cent lower than we pay here. In other Pennsylvania cities the price is even lower.

It can't be the freight costs, for the prices are lower east and west of here. It can't be the grade of gas, for it is the same as we get here. It must be something, but don't ask me what it is. The drought perhaps.

THE NEWEST GASOLINE

GROWING!
GROWING!

MOBILGAS started this spring with a new idea. Now it's a regular giant!... and still growing. People are quick to use the new, the different, the better.

The new idea: Cars and their motors have changed. The modern motor needs a modern gasoline.

The result: Mobilgas, the newest gasoline, modernized by Vacuum's process of distillation for the car you drive today.

Anti-knock, power, economy? Of course, and in full measure. Mobilgas is a worthy companion of Mobiloil. Just switch for a week and let your car decide.

Air Travel Growing Safer, Statistical Report Shows

(International News Service)
HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 12.—Passengers in airplanes piloted by licensed aviators with 400 or more hours of experience in the air are not as likely to figure in accidents as are persons riding with pilots with less than such a number of hours experience, according to a report on aviation statistics of the Actuarial Society of America just issued.

Last year the death rate among pilots holding a Department of Commerce license of the highest or transport type was 79 per thousand among aviators having less than 400 hours of flying, while the rate was only 29 per thousand, or 63 percent less among those with at least 400 hours in the air. Strange as it may seem the committee responsible for the report consisting of J. E. Hopkins, assistant actuary of the Travelers' Insurance Company and H. R. Bassford, assistant actuary of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, found comparatively little improvement in the death rate of pilots having more than 400 hours air experience.

Comparing airway travel with that on railroads the report points out that while the passenger death rate on railroads is approximately one per 300,000 passenger miles, the fatality rate in airway travel is approximately one per 1,250,000 passenger miles. This comparison indicates that airway travel in accordance with the experience tabulated by the committee for 1929, was more than 200 times as hazardous as railway passenger service. Comparison with automobile and steamship travel was impossible because of the lack of statistics. It was reported, even though passenger travel by air is shown to be far more dangerous than by rail. It was disclosed in the report that the death rate of aviation passengers is only one per 5,000 persons carried on scheduled air lines during the period from January, 1927 through March of this year.

Since the safety of passengers in a large measure depends on the experience of pilots, much attention is paid in the report to the death rate among pilots of various classifications. While aviators holding Department of Commerce licenses of the transport class suffered a death rate as a general group of 34 per thousand, pilots flying more than 400 hours a year had the lowest rate in the transport class. The death rate was around 50 a thousand among aviators flying on scheduled lines with little difference observable between those on lines carrying passengers only and those on lines carrying mail. This higher death rate is probably due to the necessity of making schedule regardless of weather. Although definite figures were not available on pilots giving student instruction, the opinion is expressed that their hazard is not unusually great.

That the number of miles covered by aircraft has an important bearing on the death rate among passengers is indicated by the records which show in non-scheduled commercial flying, consisting chiefly of short hops but with some cross country taxi service, that the fatality rate among passengers was about two per 100,000 persons carried. This experience indicates that in scheduled flying the death rate among passengers is about ten times what it is in non-scheduled commercial flying, where the duration of such flights is much shorter.

The experience gathered on United States Army and Navy pilots records indicates that Army and Navy regulation and discipline have helped to promote safety in the air because the death rate of such pilots is much lower in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1929, than in the best class of commercial aviators, and this despite the stunt and formation flying engaged in by service flyers. The death rate of commissioned airplane pilots in the Army was eight per thousand and in the Navy 10 per thousand. The mortality experience in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1929, was said to be exceptionally favorable as the annual average for the last three years was at the rate of 13 deaths per thousand in the Army and 21 in the Navy. Mortality among relatively inexperienced pilots in civil aviation was said to have its counterpart in the Army where reserve officers on extended duty with regular forces, comprising mostly recent graduates of Army flying schools had a much higher death rate than regular Army pilots or reserve officers who are accustomed to fly on week-ends at approved fields and summer camps. National Guard flyers suffered a death rate similar to regular Army pilots.

The report of the committee of the Actuarial Society shows that travel by airplane is becoming safer, because the death rate among passengers is gradually decreasing and that a greater degree of safety is possible where planes are piloted by flyers with considerable experience in the air.

Argue Details Of Steel Producing In Merger Suit

A. C. Reilly, Vice-President Of Sheet & Tube On Witness Stand Today

CAMPBELL GIVEN
STIFF GRILLING

(International News Service)
YOUNGSTOWN, O., Sept. 12.—Technical details of steel production were placed under acute examination in common pleas court here today as opposing forces rounded out the twelfth week of trial of the injunction suit against the merger of Youngstown Sheet & Tube Company with Bethlehem Steel Corporation. Cross-examination of W. B. Campbell, a partner in Price, Waterhouse & Company, the auditing concern which prepared the figures upon which the merger contract was based, regarding exhibits introduced by the defense was delayed by the anti-merger attorneys pending further study of the data.

Considerable interest was projected today into the testimony of W. C. Reilly, vice president of Sheet & Tube in charge of operations, who declared that the Youngstown concern is facing the immediate necessity of spending $31,500,000 to modernize pipe and sheet mills in accordance with recent innovations in these phases of the industry.

Changing conditions in pipe-making, Reilly declared, will probably affect the butt weld process. "These changes in the steel industry, proffered forces contend, cast a favorable hue upon the alignment with Bethlehem."

Before suspending his cross-examination of Campbell yesterday, Clan Crawford, anti-merger attorney, questioned the auditing expert as to changes by Sheet & Tube in making depreciation and maintenance and repair charges in 1927.

The sum of $1,253,104 was spent to transport pupils by motor, trolley, railroad and horse from one-room rural schools to approximately 600 consolidated schools where facilities for a modern program of education were provided.

An additional sum of $294,537 was paid to transport pupils whose residence was two miles or more from the nearest school provided by the district.

Peter's Adventures
THE LOAD THAT PETER CARRIED
Busy believed that every Ant should do her duty, but, for some reason or other, he felt sorry for Nurse.
"Poor old thing! She must have been working dreadfully hard to be so tuckered out," said she. "Keep an eye open, boy and make sure that none of the tribe come back to find Nurse asleep at her post. Let the workers find her snoozing and they might not wait to find out why or stop to notice we were guarding the eggs in her stead. That she was asleep when she was supposed to be on guard would be enough to madden them and likely they would fly at her and tear her to pieces before we had a chance to explain. In a moment I will wake her up. Say, boy, how many of these eggs do you think you can carry?"
Peter lifted one of the round white things and felt its weight.
"Well, this egg is not as light as I thought it would be," whispered Peter. "But I rather think I can manage three at a time, maybe four, two under each arm."
"For mercy's sake, don't take a chance!" warned Busy. "I could not save you from the result of your own folly if you dropped an egg and smashed it!"
"Don't worry. I won't start anything I can't finish!" promised Peter. "Here, give me that egg. It's too heavy for you. I'll tuck it under one arm and here's another egg to tuck under the other. I still have two hands free. Four eggs at a time. That's the load that I can carry!"
Next: "Will the Ants Find Nurse Napping?"

Belgian Bathing Beaches "Go Modern"
(International News Service)
BRUSSELS, Sept. 12.—After a long and difficult struggle, sun-bathing has finally won a place for itself on Belgian beaches and in some places, the communal authorities have set their seal on the practice of organizing special sun-baths.
Until this summer non-abbreviated, old-fashioned bathing costumes have been the rule for summer resorts, but smart pyjamas, barkless costumes and very delectable sun suits are now to be seen at Ostend, once the favorite summer haunt of the Kaiser, Knokke and other small places on the Belgian coast.

FAMILY'S WELL WATER TURNS TO GASOLINE
(International News Service)
WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 12.—Remember the fairy-tales of your childhood about sugar plums trees and magic carpets and wine flagons that you could never drink dry?
Well, you can believe it or not but Gordon Heights, three miles north of Wilmington and five miles south of the Pure Oil Company oil tanks, has a new magic well that has given Mr. and Mrs. Wright King, of that settlement, all the gasoline that they wished now for two years.
When the tank in Mrs. King's car is nearly dry does she drive to the nearest filling station and order ten gallons of gas as all ordinary mortals without magic wells have to do? Not at all, she runs upstairs to the bathroom with a pail and turns on the spigot and fresh, sparkling orange colored gasoline runs out in any quantity she desires.
And it's nice for the Kings' friends too.
"Wouldn't you like to have some nice fresh gasoline?" she says, "just wait a minute and I'll run upstairs and get you some."
But there is just one fly in the ointment of the Kings—though they never lack for gasoline they can't have the one thing that nearly everyone else has plenty of, and that is water. For the King well in common with most other magic things in contrary and stubborn in its ways. Gasoline is what it has to give, gasoline is what it will give, and it just won't give anything else.
It's a little inconvenient, the Kings admit, but they say that you get used to the strange reversal of the usual order after awhile and find it perfectly natural to carry in all your water while you run gasoline from your spigots.
Both the King's well and their house are a century old and in all their existence they have lived a perfectly normal existence until the water of the well suddenly turned into gas.
No way has been found to explain the well's unusual behavior although nearby filling stations have dug up their tanks and examined gasoline lines, in the fear that they were leaking into the well. But no leak has ever been found.

Jeremiah, The Weeping Prophet

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

So then every one of us shall give account of himself to God.—
So then every one of us shall give account of himself to God—Romans 14:12.

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL
Jeremiah was more than a prophet.
He was a statesman, a patriot and a martyr. His was the sad ministry of accompanying a doomed nation to the death chamber of its execution. He prophesied during the reigns of the last five kings of Judah, the good king Josiah and his three wicked sons and grandson, Jehoiakim, Jehoiachin and Zedekiah.

For half a century Jeremiah ceased not to warn kind and people alike, even with tears, of the doom and destruction which must come upon them for their persistent idolatry.
But, despite his warnings and the sad experience of the captivity of the northern kingdom of Israel in 722 B.
C., the southern kingdom rushed on to a like fate, and God raised up Nebuchadnezzar to destroy Jerusalem and carry its people away into captivity which Jeremiah prophesied so clearly and repeatedly came in 586
B. C., for Jeremiah's message dealt chiefly with the truth that with nations as well as with individuals "the wages of sin is death."

Jeremiah has been called "the weeping prophet" from the way he poured out his soul in tearful pleadings and bitter lamentations in his effort to avert the captivity and destruction of his beloved people. But his message to King Jehoiakim was whittled into pieces and burned in the fire, a treatment of the Word of God not greatly different from that accorded it today in some quarters when it runs counter to the notions of the willful and self-opinionated. The prophet was charged with treason and with weakening the hands of the defenders of Jerusalem, and imprisoned and cast into a filthy pit to die, had he not been rescued by his friends.
The burden of Jeremiah's message is embodied in the vision given him in the house of the potter. There in the vessel of clay whirling on the potter's wheel, marred in the hand of the potter, Jeremiah saw the sad outcome of the Divine Potter's efforts to make of his nation a vessel of beauty and usefulness. "The vessel that he made of clay was marred in the hand of the potter; so he made it again another vessel, as seemed good to the potter to make it." (18:4.)

This remaking of the marred vessel is the message of hope Jeremiah saw and preached through his tears. God would not utterly and permanently destroy his people, but would bring them back after 70 years of captivity and reshape the nation and "make it again another vessel."

Sour Grapes and Teeth on Edge
When Jeremiah's hearers could no longer deny the truth of his message of impending judgment they sought an alibi in a familiar proverb which would have laid the blame for their condition upon their fathers instead of upon themselves. "The fathers have eaten a sour grape, and the children's teeth are set on edge." But Jeremiah denied them the comfort of this alibi. They were not being punished for the sins of preceding generations but for their own. "Every one shall die for his own iniquity."
They had sinned against the clear light God had used him to bring them, and were left without excuse in the presence of judgment.

Jeremiah's Tears and Christ's Jeremiah's passionate love for his people, his desire for their salvation, his rejection by his own whom he came to save, and his tears over the impotence of Jerusalem in the shadow of its impending destruction, remind us of the greatest of all Judah's prophets, Jesus of Nazareth, who,
"when he beheld the city, wept over it, saying, O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, thou that killest the prophets and stonest them that are sent unto thee, how often would I have gathered thy children together even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings and ye would not."

Boo-Broadway
by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

By Central Press
NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—A female interviewer said to Joe Cook, musical comedy star:

"If you couldn't be Joe Cook, who would you like to be?"
And Joey said: John D. Rockefeller;
"I'd like to be John D. Rockefeller; or in a pinch, Henry Ford."
I've always wondered why Joe Cook stopped within half an inch of being a great comedian. Now I know.
Somebody once asked the late lamented Joe Choate the same question. And Joe Choate said:
"If I couldn't be Joseph Choate, I'd want to be Mrs. Joseph Choate's second husband."

NOT PRACTICAL
Old Doc P. C. Brown, who is hooked up with the Museum of Peaceful Arts, broke out into a rash of newsprint recently, predicting that in the course of the next hundred years New Yorkers will be living on an artificial mountain, basking in artificial sunshine and breathing "conditioned" air.

With breadlines, soup kitchens, five million men out of work and business on the bum, you'd think that when a scientist took a squirt into the future he'd give us the lowdown on next month or next year—something we could check up on.
You can't blame 'em, I suppose, for not wanting to risk their reputations.

VALUES
A hair, perhaps, divides the highbrow racketeer, in the Court of Appeals court, from his lowly confrere in sweater and cap.
The success of all racketeers consists in getting the rest of us to accept them at their own preposterous face value.

JUST LEGS
A Fifth Avenue Boob Bazaar has on display hosiery for the Female of the Species at a hundred bucks a pair.

The only people who can afford stuff like that are the Newport Park Ave. crowd, and after looking over the legs of the debutantes in the rotations this summer I've come to the conclusion that it will take more than hundred dollar hosiery to get most of 'em into the Ann Pennington class.

LUXURY

Speaking of Fifth Ave. Boob Bazaars: One of them advertised in last Sunday's paper:
"It's thrifty to be luxurious in a mink coat."

Try to figure that one out.
If you put on a mink coat for purpose of thrift you at once banish all idea of luxury.

On the other hand, if you slip into one of those vestments with luxurious intent you've knocked Thrift high, wide and handsome.

There's something intrinsically un-thrifty about a mink coat—which is more than half its charm.

To be thoroughly effective, a mink coat must be worn with the Park Ave. expression of complacency, or the Forbes Girl look of vacuity.

It's the wrong appeal if you're worrying about the rent.

NO COMPARISON
Mr. Priestly of London has written another book. It's called "Angel Pavement", and for 500 pages deals with the snarling narrowness of the lives of a bunch of poor, cringing, pale, cockney office workers in a blind alley in the heart of London.

And Brother Priestly peeps across the top of every single one of those 500 pages, and with an irritating dental display inquires:
"Don't you think I'm a modern Dickens? I do!"

No criticism of Priestly's work is complete that doesn't mention the name of Dickens—which annoys all Dickens lovers mightily. There's as much difference between Priestly and the author of "David Copperfield" as there is between the music of the spheres and a mouse's squeak.

Dickens, son of the stars and sewers, wrote by the grace of God. He wrote with a quill, and his quill was a flexible, human voice.

Many Deaths Are Caused By Mishaps In Home

By GILBERT GORDON
International News Service Special
Correspondent

Mark Twain, in his day, remarked that all beds were "deadly" beds, because people die in them.

But nowadays many persons hasten their end by rolling out of beds onto the floor. This, and other folk around the home were cited today by Dr. Walter M. Dickie, state health director, in reporting that 8 1/2 per cent of all deaths in California last year were due to external causes, mostly accident in which diseases were not involved.

The total number of such deaths was 5558 out of an aggregate of 65,263 fatalities from all causes.

Falls, in both the home and in industry, caused almost one-sixth of such deaths, while auto accidents were responsible for nearly one-half of this toll. In addition to falls from beds, steps, ladders, furniture, or slipping on waxed floors, other dangers in the home included food poisoning which caused 42 deaths last year.

Dr. Dickie reported that falls in homes and industry were responsible for 385 deaths in California in 1929. California's toll of drowning claimed 332 lives during the year and 226 died of burns, 168 in railroad accidents, 2058 in automobile crashes and 92 as a result of airplane accidents.

Excessive cold killed two persons, while excessive heat claimed 87 others, with electric shocks taking 63 lives.

The toll of homicide for the year was 326. Seven deaths were caused by starvation.

Number of deaths from other causes were: Accidental burns 266; conflagration, 59; industrial absorption of poisonous gases, 130; motorcycle accidents, 32; mines and quarries, 33; and mechanical suffocation, 48.

Mushroom Expert Eats Toadstool

(International News Service)
FOUGERES, Sept. 12.—Victor Cottin, mushroom expert has just died in this little town by eating a toadstool. After spending a lifetime seeing to it that his compatriots were not mistaken in their fungi, Cottin died a death of poison.

Some of his friends believe that the mushroom-master was experimenting with a new variety, hoping to provide a new delicacy for gluttons. Others fear that perhaps he took this method of ending his own life. The facts remain that no one is infallible.

13 Nationalities Represented In Opera

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 12.—Artists signed for the coming season by the Chicago Civic Opera company represent 13 countries, according to the 1930-31 roster which has just been released.

As in other seasons, American artists top the list. Of the total 70 men and women engaged, 22 are American born and 14 are naturalized. Italy has the next largest representation with 19. In order follow Germany, Lady's Health Restored By Ten Herbs—Husband Also Benefited.

"Ten Herbs restored me to good health," was the statement of Mrs. C. B. Geisel, Route 6, Box 127, Greensburg, Pa. "I had been troubled with severe pains across my back, and was badly constipated. Since being in an auto wreck some time ago. I have been very nervous and subject to weak spells. I could not get restful sleep. I also had been a sufferer from indigestion for a long time.

"My husband was taking Ten Herbs for stomach and bowel trouble, and he was getting such good results that I started using your medicine. My health has improved wonderfully. The pains have left my back, and those weak spells do not trouble me any more. I sleep soundly, as I am free of nervousness. My appetite is good, and I am rid of stomach trouble. My bowels are regular. Others suffering like I was should not fail to give Ten Herbs a trial at once."

Ten Herbs is a splendid tonic for every member of the family. Being herbal, it cleanses the whole system—stimulates poisonous waste matter and impurities—enriches the blood and imparts new bodily vigor.

Ten Herbs is sold at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 E. Washington St., this city, and by all leading druggists throughout this entire section.

Belgium, France, Russia, Poland, Spain, Scotland, Canada, Hungary, Sweden and Australia.

This list is comprised of 55 singers, 11 conductors and assistant conductors, a stage director, ballet director, chorus master and technical director.

The stage director, coming to the Chicago organization for the first time this season, is Dr. Otto Erhardt of the Dresden State Opera. Since 1912 Dr. Erhardt has followed his profession in England, Spain and Italy, as well as in Germany. He served in the World war and was injured three times.

Cuba May Ban American Jazz

(International News Service)

HAVANA, Sept. 12.—The indigo moanings of American saxophones and the "boop oop a doop" of Yankee orchestras may become as extinct as the Dodo bird here if a bill now before the house of representatives is passed.

Dr. Rafael Guas Inclan, president of the house, has introduced the measure which forbids the employment of American jazz bands in Cuban cabarets and theatres. Since Havana has become a virtual suburb of the United States by reason of its large American colony and the influx of American tourists, native music has been more or less shunted into the background, the doctor feels, while the blare of the American trumpet and whine of the clarinet have boomed into popular favor. The bill sets a penalty of imprisonment and a substantial fine for those who would violate the law.

Dr. Inclan said he believes in protecting home industry.

Port Breaks Its Shipping Record

(International News Service)

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Sept. 12.—Despite the fact that this port was rather busy in the days of "wooden ships and iron men" the business of the fiscal year ending June 30 broke all records for that period, according to figures just made available by the customs office. The importations directed to this port amounted to $365,519 and foreign goods in bond from other ports amounted to $616,519.

SAYS NARCOTIC ADDICTS COST U. S. BILLION YEARLY

(International News Service)

DENVER, Col., Sept. 12.—American has one-half million dope addicts, which cause the United States an annual economic loss of one billion dollars, according to Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson, U. S. Navy, retired, hero of the Merrimac and world leader of two extensive organizations that he has sponsored to check narcotic traffic.

"The world war against the dope evil is approaching a crisis," Captain Hobson said while in Denver recently. "Education on the evils of narcotic is needed to arouse public sentiment in this country and Europe. We already have two international pacts for suppression of the traffic, but they are not enforced in fifty factories in Europe for the manufacture of narcotic derivatives."

Captain Hobson was the originator of the International Narcotic Education association and the world conference on narcotic education, with headquarters in Los Angeles, New York and Geneva, Switzerland. A world meeting will be held next July in Geneva and directly after this there will be a meeting on the same subject under the auspices of the League of Nations. Captain Hobson looks to these two sessions to do much toward curtailing the traffic which for the present has assumed gigantic proportions.

Use of heroin is the most common dope habit, according to Captain Hobson who accounts for its popularity because of its almost instantaneous effect upon the brain. It stimulates and flatters the ego and gives the craze for daring deeds, which often culminate in criminal action. Crimes that arise from this stimulus often are of the most brutal sort insofar as the criminal feels no pity for the suffering of his victim.

Vegetable Troubles Beset Soviet Russia

(International News Service)

MOSCOW, Sept. 12.—Efforts of high party leaders to provide the workers and employees with fruits and vegetables at a reasonable price have met with little success despite arrests of several hundred officials on charges of negligence.

Investigation has ascribed the dearth of vegetables and fruits to a falling off in production, enormous waste due to slow transportation, inefficient wholesaling and retailing, and the refusal of cooperative stores to handle highly perishable goods at a small profit. The press admits that from 40 to 50 per cent of the vegetables are unfit for food when they arrive in the railroad yards, and from 60 to 90 per cent of the strawberries and early pears are spoiled. The Pravda said it was impossible for a workingman to afford a cucumber at the prevailing price of 20 cents apiece, and the cucumber used to be the national dish of the proletariat. The private market is the only place where such common fruits as strawberries, cherries and tomatoes can be bought and all three are selling at about 50 cents a pound.

In Moscow and Leningrad alone 95 cooperative store officials are in jail because they refused to buy vegetables from state wholesale warehouses and retail them to workers, thus allowing private merchants to buy up everything and retail it at high prices.

France Has Least Unemployed

(International News Service)

PARIS, Sept. 12.—France now has the smallest number of unemployed in all the countries of Europe. While England puts on record two millions without work and Germany 1,800,000, France counts no more than five or six thousand men with their arms crossed, according to the latest statistics. It is expected, however, that this number will be increased when the new law of Social Insurance goes into effect.

WORKERS REMOVE ROADSIDE SIGNS

Defaced Signs, Scrawled And Tattered, Illegal Advertising, Removed

HARRISBURG, Sept. 12.—Caretakers of the Pennsylvania Department of Highways have just completed the destruction of 32,225 roadside signs, including every type of blur, daub, scrawl and tattered legend that came within the definition of illegal advertising. A report submitted today to W. A. Van Duzer, assistant chief engineer of the department, tabulated the results of the six-weeks' clean-up campaign instituted by the department, who is in charge of roadside beautification.

To Erie county the award was made for the most notable improvement in roadside appearance. In that county alone caretakers hauled out 6,427 of the noxious emblems. Employees in nine other northwestern counties took down more than 7,000 signs.

The campaign was state-wide. Orders were issued that illegal signs, including those on the highway right-of-way and those erected on private property without specific permission or lease, were to go. Each caretaker was instructed to scour each foot of his section, questioning the property owners along the roadway as to the legality of signs on their road.

While Erie county saw the record number of signs pulled down, five other counties yielded from 1,000 to 2,000 signs: Armstrong, Butler, Clinton, Cambria and York. Other counties were: Crawford, Venango, Schuylkill, Luzerne, Beaver, Greene, Washington, Blair, Somerset, Berks and Bucks.

Signs constructed in imitation of the department's official markers were given the official taboo and the perpetrators warned that such imitation is illegal. Prominent among this class, according to the report, are signs erected by roadside stands, bearing the words "Stop," or "Warning."

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box, 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Co-operate In Training Your Child

You will remember that a little while ago I wrote of a conference at which I sat at the Cornell University Nursery School, where the problem of preparing college students for parenthood was discussed. It was recognized that social taboos caused some college women to avoid courses labelled "Child Care and Training" and shut out virtually all the college men.

"What kind of course," I asked, "would appeal to those who are like-one's friends where lack of co-operation between parents has led to serious matters of discipline. But—as you say, isn't it difficult to measure up to all the standards we set for ourselves as parents?"

Another writes from Michigan: "I received your letter some time ago, in answering to the one I wrote you telling you the trouble we were having with our six-year-old boy in regards to crying when left at school. A great change has come and, we hope, to stay. He is going to school now, and will go other places without us, and go alone and stay all night."

"You know I think that we parents in our rush of life expect too much of our children. We expect them to act like grown-ups. We forget how we were when we were small. Why is it that we have so many problems with our children that our parents did not have with us? I have talked with my mother and others and they say they did not seem to have the troubles that we have. Your talks on Parent Problems are very good. I think, and I have written to the U. S. Bureau of Education, Washington, D. C., for your letters and booklets.

"I see by one of your talks, that lots of folks have trouble with their children, and cod liver oil. That is keep enough of it on hand to take. My children, four and six years old, beg for it, and see who can get to the cupboard first to get it. I give them one tablespoonful once to three times a day in the winter, and they are always ready to take more."

"Here's the way: Give your spoonful of oil, as much as you are going to give, then measure out a small spoonful of strained honey. I give them one tablespoon cod liver oil and one teaspoon honey. The honey is good for them too and it takes the taste out of the mouth and throat. I hope many mothers will try this and save the little ones so much trouble in taking cod liver oil.

"Thanks for the reply to the letter I wrote, and I hope you continue your Parent Problems for they surely help."

The honey scheme seems practical but let no mother who has not the honey feel discouraged. Scores of children learn to like cod liver oil taken alone.

Sproul-Jackson Absolved Today

Late Ex-Governor Sproul and His Co-Partner Newton P. Jackson Absolved in Court

FRAUD CHARGES ARE DISMISSED

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12.—The late ex-governor William C. Sproul with his Co-partner Newton P. Jackson, of the South Penn Collieries company, was absolved in a decision handed down today by Judge W. H. Kirkpatrick in the U. S. district court here, of charges of fraud and negligence, and a bill of equity filed by Robert H. Buchanan, receiver of the Collieries company, was dismissed.

The suit arose out of the plan of ex-governor Sproul to place on a paying basis, the Kresge Coal company, in which he held 1200 shares of stock and $183,000 worth of bonds. The company had been in the business of obtaining coal from culm banks, but in 1924, had been conducting business at a heavy loss and was practically insolvent. A number of persons interested in the Kresge company, including governor Sproul, concluded that the firm could be saved if capital could be provided to acquire a sufficient number of coal mines to keep it in the coal business during the periods when the culm banks could not be worked profitably.

Promoted Collieries
Governor Sproul and Jackson undertook to promote the South Penn Collieries company and on August 4, 1924, the new company bought the first of the coal mining properties which it had been organized to acquire. This was known as the Katherine property and the following November the South Penn Collieries company purchased from Sproul and Jackson all of the capital stock of the Randolph Coal company and certain coal lands known as the Middle-port property. The receiver of the Collieries company, in his suit, alleged secret profits were made by Sproul and Jackson when they were promoters of the South Penn Colliery company by means of the purchase of coal property and the re-sale of these same properties to the Colliery company at an advanced price.

Ex-Governor Sproul and his co-promoter were also charged in the bill in equity with negligence or fraudulent misapplication of funds of the South Penn Collieries company, as directors and officers of the concern, in purchasing obligations of the Kresge Coal company amounting to $405,427.

Judge Kirkpatrick rejected both contentions in his decision.

Cuts An Arrow To Mark River's Low For All Time

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 12.—Weather Observer R. A. Fergus has chiseled a permanent low water mark for the Allegheny river, which can now be plainly seen from the Eighth street bridge. The mark, a deep-cut arrow, is on "elephant rock", 150 feet from shore on the Pennsylvania railroad side, is likely to stand for all time.

Dog's Trick Wins Back Old Home

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Sept. 12.—If you have dogs, here's one for you. Mike was a bird dog, vied at $300. N. K. Peterson was the owner. Then Mike was lost for 15 months. Peterson ultimately saw the dog in company of I. S. Bentley, who insisted the dog was his, "bought it from a negro." Peterson brought a replevin action and convinced Squire John Mynatt of his right to ownership when he made Mike sit up on the rear seat of an automobile in a manner designed to keep the cushion clean despite dirty feet. It was an old trick Peterson had taught the dog. The negro said he had found the dog.

Number Of Patents Shows Large Gain

Increase Of Nearly 2000 In Year Noted; Pennsylvania Ranks Third

Inventors' contributions to mechanics and the sciences during the year 1929 show a decided increase over those of 1928. Statistics just compiled in Washington disclose that the Commissioner of Patents issued 42,251 in 1929, as compared with 40,322 granted in 1928.

Pennsylvania stands third on the list of States, with respect to the number of patents granted to her citizens. Pennsylvanians applied successfully in 3639 cases last year, as compared to 2536 in 1928. New York held its position as leader in the field, 7755 patents having been taken out by residents of the Empire State, its closest competitor as cradle of inventions being Illinois, where 4658 were received.

Ohio stands in fourth place with 3639 patents for 1929, while California is fifth with 3087. These are the only other States to take out over 3000 patents.

Although the figures show New York to be the leader in total number of patents granted, the per capita honor goes to California, followed closely by the State of Connecticut. Four of the New England States stand among the first ten with respect to the number of patents granted per capita, namely, Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Rhode Island.

At the other end of the scale can be found Nevada, with 28 patents for 1929; New Mexico with 29; Wyoming, with 50; Arizona, with 57, and Mississippi, with 58. The District of Columbia far tops these with 276 patents.

Of the State about Pennsylvania, New Jersey received 2530 patents; Delaware, 88; Maryland, 386, and West Virginia 183.

Prices Of Furs Reported Lower

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—August fur sales now in progress indicate that there will be at least $75,000,000 worth of raw American pelts bought and manufactured before the end of this year.

Although the prices of furs are declared by manufacturers and dealers to be lower than in years, the demand for fur garments will probably bring the total value of garments sold close to the level of 1929. If the volume of business continues, it is likely that quotations will advance before winter.

United States still leads in production of raw furs. This is due largely to the muskrat population. During the coming year, approximately 5,000,000 muskrat skins will be processed and their raw cost will range from 75 cents to $2.50 each. Skins listed under the heading of caracul, kid and lamb will total approximately 7,500,000, while squirrels will furnish 3,000,000 additional pelts.

Kansas City Man Said To Have Existed On $1.35 A Month

Newspaper dispatches from Kansas City tell of the case of Michael Hirak, oil field worker, who, on a salary of $102.70 a month accumulated an estate of $20,000 in ten years. He lived somehow—on $1.35 a month while doing it. Hirak was burned to death when a coal stove exploded.

The fact that few persons care to live on $1.35 a month, even to save $2,000 per year, is emphasized by the fact, they do not. Hirak was an exceptional man. While his employers boarded him, Hirak lived in squalid quarters where he did not cook, did his own laundry, did his own washing, cut his hair and shaved himself, did not smoke or chew, belonged to no organizations and never attended an entertainment.

Hirak existed; he did not live. A man who subjects himself to such conditions, sacrificing all that makes life worth while, could not be said to have lived. Money is no compensation for the lack of a home, love, children, satisfaction of good food and, clothing, cultural influence of books, newspapers, magazines and entertainment, says the Sioux City Tribune.

What Keeps Ocean Salty?

What keeps the ocean briny? The 483 known volcanoes of the world, spouting yearly more than a hundred millions tons of hydrochloric acid, combine with the rivers to salt the sea. The rivers bring down quantities of sodium which unite with the acid to form sodium chloride or common salt. There are many other salts in the ocean, but ordinary table salt is the principal one. This is the conclusion of Dr. Thomas A. Jaggar, director of the Hawaiian Volcano Observatory at Honolulu, after extensive studies of the subject.

The hydrochloric acid leaves the volcanoes as a gas with the constantly rising steam. Dr. Jaggar explains, the gas merges with water vapor in the atmosphere and falls with the rain. Considering that there is an average rainfall of about forty inches the world over, rain water need contain only about one part of hydrochloric acid in five in order to supply the ocean's salt.

Three New Professors On Westminster Faculty

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 12.—When the faculty of Westminster College gathers Monday afternoon for its first meeting of the year, three new professors will be introduced to the group. These are Dr. H. F. Young, assistant professor of psychology and education; Miss Mae E. Haas, professor of public school music; and Leon S. Marshall, assistant professor of history.

Dr. Young, a graduate of Kentucky and the University of Cincinnati, comes to Westminster after nine years of experience in the high schools of Kentucky and Ohio and a year of graduate work at Cincinnati. He takes the post vacated by Professor J. D. Lawther's resignation.

To fill the vacancy by the resignation of Hunter D. Parish, Professor Marshall has been appointed an instructor in history. Professor Marshall spent last year as a graduate assistant at University of Pittsburgh. He received his A. B. degree from the College of Emporia, Kansas, and his M. A. degree from the University of Colorado. He has taught in high schools in Buffalo, Kan., Albuquerque, N. M., and Pueblo, Col.

Miss Haas, a graduate of East Stroudsburg Normal, Cornell, and New York University, comes to Westminster from Allentown where she was music supervisor in the public schools. She has taught in colleges and high schools in Pennsylvania and New Jersey since 1911.

Harlow S. Osgood, acting instructor in chemistry last year during the absence of Dr. Charles Freeman, will be instructor in chemistry in place of J. George Lutz, resigned. Osgood, a graduate of Westminster in the class of 1927, has his M. S. degree from Penn State College.

Thomas Mansell, a graduate in the class of 1929, will be assistant in economics and business administration and director of the college book store, replacing Ross Ellis, '29, who goes to the Harvard business school this year for graduate work. Mansell spent last year at Harvard Law School.

With these exceptions, the same group of professors and instructors, numbering about 35, will be present this year as was on the Westminster faculty last year.

COMPLETES WORK ON 227 BRIDGES

Many Urgent Cases Of Repairing Or Replacing Handled By Department

HARRISBURG, Sept. 12.—Replacement or widening of 227 of the county bridges acquired by the Pennsylvania Department of Highways on June 1, 1930, was reported completed to-day by Samuel Eckels, chief engineer. The department was presented with more than 2200 bridges by an act of the 1929 Assembly.

Many urgent cases of replacement or improvement of bridges were handled by the department prior to the compulsory date of acquisition in order to hasten the work. A survey made by engineers listed bridges in need of immediate attention to promote safety or expedite prompt movement of traffic over them.

The survey of bridges listed 245 timber structures, of which forty-three have been replaced during the year by the department. Construction of twenty-nine was with reinforced concrete, thirteen others were of steel and one was replaced with a new timber structure.

Ancient steel bridges to the number of 105 were replaced, eighty-four with concrete, and twenty with steel construction. Four of the thirty-eight I-beam bridges were replaced with concrete.

Widening or relocation was necessary in the case of twenty-one concrete bridges in order to bring them up to modern safety and traffic requirements. Some had been placed at sharp angles with relation to the roadway approach and were the scene of numerous accidents. This was also true in the case of nineteen stone arch bridges. All were reconstructed or replaced with concrete, twelve of the flat top design and seven by arches.

Bridge work during the 1929-1930 biennium was almost three times as heavy as during the previous two years. Records show that 277,000 cubic yards of concrete was used in bridge construction during the past twenty-four months, in addition to 16,736,000 pounds of bar reinforcement and 12,730,000 pounds of fabricated steel. Six times as much fabricated steel was used as in the previous biennium.

Allen south on Walnut street and did not make a full stop at Court street, as William Quigley of 1027 Court street came east on Court street. Quigley in order to avoid a collision drove up over the curb and damaged his machine to a considerable extent.

Mike Passerello of 238 Shadyside reported Thursday that he was driving east on Gardner avenue at Moravia street, as a street car enroute south stopped to take on passengers. Passerello started out onto Moravia street as a car bearing Pennsylvania license 7H152 going south on Moravia street came around to the left of the street car and the machines came together. Lime Has Been Used As Aid To Soil For Century

One Of First Kilns For Burning Lime In America Made In Chester County

HARRISBURG, Sept. 12.—Lime has been used to increase the productivity of cultivated land in Pennsylvania for more than 100 years, according to the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

One of the first kilns for burning lime in America was constructed in Chester county in 1806. Not until about 1820, however, did lime begin to supersede land plaster (gypsum) as a soil corrective. Within 10 years, the visible, good effects of lime, particularly on light, sour, worn-out land, convinced thousands of farmers that the purchase of lime was a good investment.

At first, limestone was hauled to the farm and burnt but later it proved more practical for the quarry owner to burn the stone and sell the product ready for spreading on the land. About 1880, machinery was perfected to pulverize limestone so that it could be applied without burning. Today, pulverized limestone makes up more than 50 per cent of the total lime products sold in the Commonwealth while only one per cent, is burnt lime.

The trend in amount of lime used for agricultural purposes has been downward in many Pennsylvania counties during the past decade. However, farmers in Beaver, Bradford, Bucks, Cambria, Chester, Clearfield, Crawford, Erie, Jefferson, Mercer, Potter, Tioga, Venango, Warren, Washington and Wyoming are maintaining or increasing their use of the product.

When the total amount of lime used for agricultural purposes during the past decade is compared with the lime requirement of the soil in the various counties, it is found that farmers in those sections which need the most lime have applied proportionately less during this period than farmers in those sections which have the lowest lime requirement. Thus, in Berks, Lancaster, Lehigh, and York counties, the amount of lime applied over the past ten years more than equals the indicated needs while in counties of highest requirements, only about one-fourth the total need has been applied.

Counties in which the lime requirement of the agricultural land is highest are those of the northern section of the State, especially Erie, Crawford, Warren, McKean, Potter, Tioga, Bradford, Susquehanna, Wayne and Pike.

The total tonnage of lime estimated to have been used for agricultural purposes during the past ten years equals 4,113,590 tons.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Even New Yorkers gasp skyward when they reach the corner of Fifth avenue and 34th street, where the Waldorf-Astoria hotel used to stand.

For they see rising at the rate of a story a day a building so large and so tall that even Manhattan cave dwellers, accustomed as they are to superlatives in all things, needs must halt and marvel.

In 1912, when the Woolworth building reared its proud head into the blue, folk throughout the world gasped. Sixty stories high! What would happen next?

For years no tourist visited New York without seeing the Woolworth building. Over that length of time, thousands upon thousands of persons have held their breaths while express elevators shot them up to the top. At 50c apiece they have paid large sums to reach a sightseers' gallery.

Woolworth Rules No Longer
The Woolworth building, in all its Gothic dignity, held sway until last year when the Bank of Manhattan, topped it by 10 stories, was built.

Swiftly followed the Chrysler building, 71 stories, just completed, done in the modern manner, its shining silver helmet looming sentinel-like over the roaring forties.

And now the towering skeleton of the Empire State is being pushed up to the amazing height of 1,244 feet 11 1/2 inches, the equivalent of 102 stories, and 249 feet higher than the Eiffel tower in Paris. It will have 85 stories of offices. On the top will be a giant mooring mast for dirigibles.

Largest In World
When completed, it will be at once the largest and the tallest building in the world.

Within its walls will be housed a population that would do credit to a fair-sized city. Twenty thousand persons will enter it at 9 o'clock in the morning and pour out of it at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

On the eighty-sixth floor will be built a large observation gallery, which will be 1,048 feet above Fifth avenue and will be 108 ft. 6 in. large enough to hold several hundred persons.

The imagination falters before the conception of this gargantuan structure.

More than 10,000,000 bricks, more than 50,000 tons of steel, and 200,000 cubic feet of stone will be used.

It will take 75 miles of water mains to service the building and 2,000,000 feet of electric light and power wiring.

Its Daily Rations
Five thousand bags of cement, 450 cubic yards of sand and 300 bags of lime are used daily as the building rises at the rate of a story every 24 hours under the intensive and marvelously co-ordinated work of 3,000 men.

In appearance the building is as striking as in other respects.

Shining panels of Allegheny metal stretch skyward, and contrast with the massive stone walls in such a way that the walls appear like giant pillars.

This was not accident. New types of construction have been developed to meet the peculiar problems of strength and beauty required for so mammoth a structure.

There are 6,400 windows. It was necessary to find some treatment which would provide an impression of solidity. There was also the element of cost—window openings are expensive.

Windows Part of Walls
A solution was reached which makes this the first building to have the windows flush with the outer walls, the theory being that the outer

Dr. Dunn Urges War On Rodents

Scientist Declares Rats And Mice Spread Disease And Infection In Homes

Predicts World Wide Extirmination Movement In Near Future

Pointing to the increasing dangers of disease and infection caused by the common household rat and mouse, Dr. Martin S. Dunn of the Philadelphia College of Science and Pharmacy, declares that the time is approaching when a world-wide movement must be made to exterminate the rodent from our homes.

No country is immune from the nuisance and disease-bearing menace of the rat, says the scientist, in describing the animal as a "filthy rodent which is responsible for much of the afflictions among mankind."

Although the bubonic plague, which was attributed to the germ-carrying propensities of the rat, no longer presents itself as a serious problem, there are numerous other diseases which the rat is believed to convey, Dr. Dunn explains. "Among the diseases directly attributable to the rat are malignant jaundice, parasite mange, tape-worm and foot-and-mouth disease."

General Menace to Community
There is little good to be said about the rat. He carries off refuse, and a certain amount of cleanliness results, but in a modern home there should be no necessity for his aid. Besides, the filth he may carry from one area is simply conveyed somewhere else making him a general menace to the health of the community.

"The rat has become an international problem, and no country can successfully wage war against the scavenger unless the other nations join in the crusade to kill off the invader. Unless the whole world combines against the rodent, no country can do more than kill off the rats within its borders, and continue campaigning against invaders."

"The same thing is true of communities and properties. When one community relaxes its vigilance against the rat, a neighboring community is soon overrun with the pests. A property owner, too, wages a losing battle if adjoining premises offer safe harbors in which the rodent can live and breed. So it is quite essential that, universally, humanity becomes "rat-conscious." The fecundity of the animal is so great that it is possible for a single pair to produce nearly ten million descendants within four years.

Rats Driven From Ships
The relentless campaign against rats aboard ships has driven many of the seafaring breed to shore, Dr. Dunn points out. Very often, in spite of vigilance of health authorities at ports, the rat sneaks ashore in boxes and crates, and soon adopts himself to the new surroundings.

The ship's rat lives by plundering galley stores and cargo, and often grows almost as large as an ordinary cat. Even on grain-carrying vessels the intense cold maintained in the hold has no effect upon him. When the shortage of water begins to annoy the rat, he simply gnaws his way down to the bottom of the ship, and there thrives on the rank bilge water.

Canadian Hunter And Bear Engage In Boxing Match

QUEBEC, Sept. 12.—Gerard Fournier had a one-round boxing match with an indignant bear today, he says, and by quick footwork and a right and left to the jaw, so staggered the animal that he was able to shoot him. Fournier had been hunting deer, and came upon the bear suddenly. The bear knocked his gun from his hand, and Fournier went into action with his bare fists.

Length Of Plant Affects Plant Growth

U. S. Bureau Officials Report On Experiments With Tobacco, Chrysanthemums

A giant type of tobacco, more profitable than the ordinary variety, is now grown in southern Maryland as a result of a discovery made a few years ago by workers of the United States Department of Agriculture. This plant does not mature seed in Maryland because the days are too long in late summer. When the days get short enough frost usually prevents development of seed. When grown in Southern Florida, this plant produces abundant flowers and seed.

When this new type of tobacco was first discovered in Maryland, several years ago, observers saw that the plants were not going to mature seed in the field before cold weather came so several plants were removed to a greenhouse. Here they flowered and made seed during the short days of winter. It was then evident that this plant required a short day for flowering.

Experiments conducted by Dr. W. W. Barner and H. A. Allard of the Bureau of Plant Industry show that the length of daylight plays an important part in the flowering of plants. They have succeeded in getting chrysanthemums to bloom in midsummer. They have caused annuals to behave as biennials and vice versa, by finding the length of day required for flowering and giving the plants the correct amount of light. To lessen the amount of light the plant is kept in a dark house for a few hours in early morning and late afternoon. To make the days "longer" the scientists merely turn on electric lights of ordinary intensity.

Their work with the Maryland tobacco is an illustration of how this knowledge may be used in practical crop production. Nurserymen too, may make use of this work in controlling the blooming season of greenhouse plants. This knowledge is also useful in explaining the behavior of plants introduced from other countries, especially the Tropics, where the length of daylight is much different from that found here.

Predicts Approach Of Windowless Age

(International News Service)
DENVER, Colo., Sept. 12.—A windowless age when human beings will see the sun but a few minutes each day when they go and come from work was pictured by L. A. S. Wood of Cleveland, Ohio, for the delegates to the convention of International Association of Municipal Electricians, which was held here recently.

"Scientific research has shown that the various nerves in the human eye function at different intensities of illumination," Wood said. "When the light is insufficient for the work to be done, only a few of the nerves are able to be used. They are used to such a degree that they become tired and eye strain results."

"When the illumination is exactly fitted for the work to be done, none of the optical nerves is 'over-used' and the eye does not become tired. As much as we have become used to sunlight, it is a fact that the intensity of illumination from the sun varies to such a degree, because of weather conditions and recurrent changes in its direction, that as a means of illumination for work it is decidedly inefficient."

Wood predicted that in the future each concern would hire experts who would determine just what intensity of light was needed for maximum efficiency, and would take steps to insure a constant candlepower. This would mean that factories of the future would be huge structures without windows so that nature might not interfere with "modern" efficiency methods.

Peasants Urged To Defend Russia

(International News Service)
MOSCOW, Sept. 12.—"Osoaviachim," the Society for Defense, sent a unique river barge rigged up like a battleship down the Moscow, Oka and Volga rivers to stir up interest in military preparedness among the peasants.

The barge carried a staff of instructors, trophies of the far eastern Red army in the campaign against the Chinese last fall and innumerable placards tending to prove that imperialistic nations of the world are arming to attack the Soviet Union. At stops in the larger cities along the route automobile parties will be sent from the ship into the surrounding country. Branches of Osoaviachim will be organized wherever none exist.

Plan To Resail Frigate Niagara

PUT-IN-BAY, Ohio, Sept. 12.—The frigate "Niagara," which was one of the fleet commanded by Commodore Perry when he won his brilliant victory over the British in 1812 on Lake Erie, may again sail to the scene of the triumph.

Members of the Perry Victory commission, holding their 20th annual session here recently, decided to begin a campaign for raising a fund of $75,000 to recondition the old ship and bring it back to Put-in-Bay in honor of Commodore's victory.

Since 1913, when the warship was raised from the bottom of the lake where it had sank during the memorable battle, the craft has been on exhibition at Erie, Pa.

The state legislature and patriot organizations will be solicited by members of the Perry commission in the attempt to raise the $75,000 fund. A commission already has erected a $10,000,000 monument here to Perry.

Ellwood Team Has Scrimmage

Coach Ingle Sends Ellwood
City High Football Team
Through Stiff Workout

STRONG THIS YEAR

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., Sept. 12.—Ellwood City High School grid candidates will see more action than usual tonight as they scrimmage for the first time this season and are all set for the occasion after more than a week of daily drillings. Coach Ingle and his assistant have been working at a full pace to build their new blue and white machine. With only one more regular back into action Ingle will have to find ten new men to fill the vacancies.

One of the biggest blows received thus far was the losing of Captain Benny Rocco and thus leaving Neff the only regular from last year's crew. Benny received an injury last year and since then has been in poor physical condition and his parents feeling that it may develop into a more serious nature have forbidden him from the gridiron. The coaches and officials of the school are sorry to see Rocco forced out but realize that his parents are right and will not make any effort to get him back on the squad.

Let us glance over some of the material and see what the prospects are. In the backfield we find Charley Frank and Dick Wilson as outstanding candidates. Both of these lads saw some action last season and showed up well in their work. The latter is a quarterback and it is thought that he will develop into a fast and smart man for this important post. Bob Kennedy and Fred Robuck are also trying for this job. Condi, Sheeler, Dudick, and Campbell look good for berths as all but the last named had the benefit of some experience.

One of the best bets for the full-back assignment is Judd Cunningham, who has not had any experience but has plenty of speed to develop as he has already demonstrated that factor in his track work. It seems that he is the probable candidate to fill Bill King's shoes.

Now the building of a line is another task. For tackles we have Joe Welsh, Ed Vogt, Paul Pratt and John Mack. The first two got into a few battles last year and performed well. Burt Rossman is expected to capture one of the guard berths but will have heavy competition as his competitors, Shadone and Mazzanti tip the scales at 250 pounds or more. These two husky lads required extra size pants and if weight is the deciding issue they will get the call for these jobs. Among the other linemen are, Dave Nye, Elmer McKim and Allen Wilson. The pivot post will probably go to Nye with Earl Timblin and George Hemmerly trying for the same position.

Sam Neff will without a question hold down his wing with Eugene Cavillier and Ken Zeigler looking as best promises for one of the end positions. Cavillier saw some action last year in the backfield but has been shifted to end.

Matthew Conveyors Defeat All-Stars

ELLWOOD CITY, Sept. 12.—An exciting and interesting football tilt took place last night when the Matthews aggregation took the measure of an All Star team in the Joe Eckert Testimonial game at the Lincoln field by the close score of 3-2.

This event was staged as a benefit battle for Joe Eckert, who was injured sometime ago. His leg was broken and the Matthews manager spent a week in the local hospital and several weeks at home. He is getting along in fine shape now and the money taken in at last night's fray will help Joe take care of some of the expenses caused by this mishap.

Just to show Joe that they are still in there battling for him his mates defeated the All Star team. The battle was a good exhibition of football as both crews played well. Burns twirled for the winner while Tucker and Collins took the mound for the opponent.

Stolen Airplane May Have Been Here

George Harper, City Fireman, Reports Having Seen Similar Plane

Airplane reported Thursday over the state police teletype system at the police station as having been stolen from Luzerne county, may have been flying over this district, according to the report made to the police last night and in turn relayed to the state police.

George Harper, well known city fireman, reported that he was driving back to this city near Rose Point on Wednesday at noon, when his attention was called to a biplane, which was traveling at a low altitude and seemed to be hunting some place to land.

The biplane was within five or six hundred feet of the earth and most everything about it was easy to see. The wings were yellow and the body green, which answers the description of the stolen plane.

The big airplane was traveling so fast that Mr. Harper was unable to see all the license number, however he obtained it in part and the part he secured tallies exactly with the corresponding part of the license number of the missing plane.

The biplane was traveling in a southeasterly direction and this would take it toward the Butler airport.

The state police are checking up to determine whether or not it was noticed any place else in this section of the state.

Pennzoil Ethyl Gasoline is gum-free?

● Gum-free? What does that mean? Simply this: In cracking some crude oils to make low knock rating gasoline, gums, or substances that make gum, are formed in the gasoline. Adding Ethyl fluid to a clean regularly distilled Pennsylvania gasoline prevents this and still provides zero knock rating. That's why the use of Pennzoil Ethyl in your motor prevents gummy deposits and the resulting sticking of valves and clogging of carburetor screens.

● Per dollar spent, Pennzoil Ethyl is the most economical gasoline you can buy. More power, increased mileage, fewer carbon removals and valve-grindings, more miles "in high" to say nothing of the mental relief that comes from a sweet running motor.

● No wonder Pennzoil Ethyl has so many "dyed-in-the-wool" users. Economy of operation is the answer. Try it and see if you don't get the same answer.

Plane To Unlock Alaska's Wealth

Transportation Problem Being Solved By Air Commerce, E. B. Marter Says

Tells City Business Club Of Hunting And Fishing Trip To North Country

Inadequate means of transportation which hitherto have kept locked the prolific wealth of interior Alaska and British Columbia are on the verge of being eliminated with the rapid development of airplane commerce.

That is the opinion voiced by E. B. Marter, of this city, who was the principal speaker at a recent meeting of the City Business Club.

Mr. Marter who spent three months last autumn fishing and hunting in the North country illustrated his talk with motion pictures in which he showed the rugged beauty of the land through which he passed and caught a number of interesting pictures of wild life, including those of Rocky Mountain goats, bears, caribou and smaller game animals.

"This great expanse of country," he said, "is one of unbelievable natural wealth containing large quantities of copper, iron and gold and its future development is dependent solely upon quick and economical means of transportation. This problem I believe is about to be solved by means of airplanes."

One of the most interesting sights he saw was a caribou migration across the Yukon River in which between 200,000 and 400,000 caribou passed requiring a week for the herd to cross a given point. Game of all kinds, he added is greatly increasing in numbers and fishing an exquisite delight.

In the mountain top lakes of the country, he declared it is not unusual to catch trout weighing pounds—and it requires no particular piscatorial tricks to get them, either. All one has to do is throw a line into the water and draw it right out again. One of the finest and most interesting catches to be made in these same waters, in the opinion of Mr. Marter, is the grayling, a small, game fish, which never weighs over two or three pounds, but which always may be depended upon to put up a battle worthy of larger fish.

Throughout British Columbia, especially there are beautiful and expansive forests of great trees none of them however, to compare either in beauty or utility with those found in the State of Washington.

Weather Conditions Ideal

"It will be many years before it will be a profitable enterprise to hew these trees and take them into civilization," he said. "There are but two river basins in that entire land, the Yukon, which flows into the Bering Sea, and the Mackenzie which empties into the Arctic Ocean. Obviously, the cost of getting this timber down the rivers to be taken to points of civilization would be prohibitive."

Citing the fact that popular belief is inclined to regard Alaska and British Columbia as a land of perpetual snow and ice, Mr. Marter declared that during his visit there in the months of August, September, October and November, he found the prevailing weather to be ideal. Most of the days were warm and the nights cool.

"Rarely have I beheld such perfect beauty," he added. "The entire country is one of perfect delight. Wild, flowering shrubs and berries of every description are plentiful, surpassing any I have seen elsewhere."

Only Remove Big Tonsils If Infected

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

This procedure, taking out tonsils, seems to sum up the entire law and the gospel for most households when the discussion—"preparing the child for the school year"—arises.

The idea seems to be that if you can just get its tonsils out there is no danger that it will take anything, even algebra, if exposed.

Now, I have no objection whatever to the removal of tonsils and adenoids. When indicated it is a very valuable form of treatment. When indicated it improves the health of child and adult. When indicated it is worth the slight risk that accompanies the operation. When indicated it does no harm. When indicated it is all right. When indicated?

When is it indicated? That is the question. Not simply because your child has tonsils. All children have tonsils, and I stand on the old-fashioned belief that they were put there for some purpose. Not because the tonsils are large. All children's tonsils are large. The tonsils are one of three or four organs in the body which continuously atrophy or shrink as age advances. It is perfectly natural for a baby's tonsils to loom enormous in the back of the throat. If they are that big in a child 15 they should come out because their continued large size means they have been infected.

Not because they are present and of because they are large! Why then? What are the indications? Infection. In fact I think it is safe to say repeated and troublesome infection. Tonsillitis one or two times, surely certainly should call for tonsil removal. Repeated sore throats. Many attempts have been made to show that removal of the tonsils succeeds in preventing various contagious diseases, especially rheumatism. I think I am making a fair conservative statement when I say that at one of these attempts has succeeded. Carefully gathered figures have shown that removal of the tonsils hardly prevented at all the recurrence of fresh attacks of rheumatism in those who had had one attack, and the number of cases of rheumatism occurring in people who had had their tonsils removed is at least within one of two per cent the same as those who have not had them removed. This is no preachment against proper removal of tonsils and ade-

ing cannot diagnose or give personal answers to letters from readers. Where questions are of general interest, however, they will be taken up, in order, in the daily column. Address your queries to Dr. Logan

Flying Lizard Is Found Imbedded In Alaskan Ice

Banker On Vacation Discovers Remains Of Mesozoic Monster Which Measured 60 Feet Long—Hide Prepared For Washington Museum

SEWARD, Alaska, Sept. 12.—A piece of leather four feet square, two inches thick and like armorplate is being prepared for shipment to the University of Washington Museum. It is probably the oldest bit of leather in the world today.

The patch of hide belonged to a great flying lizard that roamed the prehistoric hills of Alaska and whose meat finally became food for bears. It was discovered in a landslide on Cook Inlet by Herman Burkhardt, Los Angeles banker, and his guide, Russell Annabert, of Anchorage. The creature measured 60 feet long, with a skull 38 inches long.

A piece of its hide and portions of flesh remained where the giant saurian had been overwhelmed by glacier ice in the tundra shales. Such lizards had 40 teeth, each weighing 10 ounces, and ribs five feet long.

Every spring huge tusks and bones of mammoths and other prehistoric creatures are left uncovered along the Yukon, Kuskokwim and other streams in Alaska, where frost action topples over high embankment or floods wash away cliffs.

Scientists have been waiting the discovery of an entire mammoth preserved in the frozen subsoil along the Alaska rivers or near Kotzebue Sound, where the finest fossil ivory is abundant.

Farewell Given Rev. Joseph Doerr
Duquesne Regrets Departure Of Pastor Coming To St. Joseph's Church Here

The Duquesne Times has the following to say concerning Rev. Joseph Doerr, formerly of Duquesne, Pa., who arrived here yesterday to take up the pastorate of the St. Joseph church on South Jefferson street, succeeding Rev. A. J. Weisenberger who left on Thursday for Butler, Pa., where he will be pastor of the St. Peter church.

Rev. Joseph Doerr, pastor at St. Joseph's Catholic church, West Grant avenue and Auriles street, departed yesterday morning for his new pastoral charge in New Castle, Pa., carrying with him the best wishes of the entire community.

His new parish in New Castle comes as a deserved promotion to the aggressive young pastor who has served in the vineyard here, faithfully and well.

Since the demise of Father Vogel, months ago, he had been acting pastor at St. Joseph's and there is general regret among the parishioners and even those outside of his particular communion, that his superiors have selected him for service elsewhere.

His new church and parochial residence in the city of New Castle is ideally located in the heart of that thriving community of 60,000 souls, and while he no doubt personally regrets the severance of happy relations in our city where he was generally revered and admired among all classes, he will nevertheless find himself in a field which shall afford greater scope for his talents and energy.

In the public life of the city, Father Doerr always performed to the fullest extent the duties of a good citizen. He was intensely interested in the physical development of the youth and was ever at the beck and call of the executive council of the Duquesne boy scouts. He has time and again addressed the banquets of the Duquesne Business Men's association at their annual gatherings, and in a generous style entered into the hope and aspirations of the community.

Wednesday and yesterday Father Doerr was tendered farewell greetings on the part of the congregation. The school children, collected among the pupils of St. Joseph's parochial school a neat little choir which they presented the pastor. The trustees of the church, on behalf of the congregation, Wednesday evening bade adieu to Father Doerr and made him a present of a substantial purse as a token of their appreciation during his long service among them.

Rev. Doerr yesterday called at The Times office and requested that we publicly extend to the people of this city his sincere appreciation for the good wishes and felicitations with which he has been showered since the announcement of his promotion which appeared in last week's Times. He is deeply sensible to these manifestations of good will and esteem which have come to him very generally from people of all faiths. His long tenure of service in their midst gives him a truly reciprocal feeling toward the people of the city.

Astronomers Carry Supply Of Suckers

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 12.—All day suckers are the latest successful scientific device necessary to a successful observance of the total eclipse of the sun.

This was revealed here when a party of four United States naval astronomers sailed for Pago Pago, American Samoa, to prepare for observation of a total eclipse on October 21.

In the hold of the Matson liner Sierra were 900 of the juvenile jaw breakers, purchased in San Francisco at the rate of three for a nickel.

They are to be used as presents for the Nuafoouans, inhabitants of the tiny isle of Nuafoou on which the eclipse is to be observed. In addition to the all day suckers the astronomers carried a supply of mirrors, beads, necklaces, and other trinkets.

Too Much Wine Made Man Fresh Air Fiend

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 12.—Her father, Joseph Gillofio, was a fresh air fiend, but not until he had taken on a goodly portion of his home-made wine. Mrs. Marie Hawley testified in superior court here recently.

She appeared as witness for her mother, Mrs. Rose Gillofio, who was granted a divorce. Judge Joseph Sabath approved a $20,000 property settlement made out of court.

Gillofio, his daughter charged, retired as a contractor only to set up as an amateur vintner. He made a number of barrels every year and drank all the beverage himself, Mrs. Hawley said.

After a session with his casks, the daughter alleged, the father went to bed only to arise frequently, open all the windows in the house and howl at the top of his voice until the police stepped in.

Payroll Bandits Get $9,000 Sum In Pittsburgh

Paymaster For Plumbing Company Held Up By Three Armed Bandits

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 12.—Three bandits today held up a paymaster of the W. N. Sauer Plumbing and Heating Company here as he alighted from his automobile in front of the plant, and made their escape with $9,000, the entire week's payroll.

E. W. Hanson, an inspector for the company, had driven up in front of the company's offices when the bandit automobile pulled up in front. One of the men, police said, reached into Hanson's machine and turned off the ignition while a second bandit grabbed the bag containing the money.

Two other men in Hanson's car were taken by surprise and made no resistance, police said.

Police flashed descriptions of the men to nearby communities and began an intensive search for them.

Traffic Law Violator Later Forced To Meet Costs Of Collection For Trying To Avoid Paying Penalty Imposed

OMAHA, Sept. 12.—It doesn't pay to stop payment on a check given a small town official in payment for a traffic fine. Edward Forke discovered before he was through he spent several hours in the city jail and was forced to expend $9.

Forke was arrested by Chief of Police Holmes, of Havlock, accused of ignoring a shop sign. Because it was Sunday, the chief acted as judge and assessed a fine and costs totaling $5.75. Forke didn't have the money, but induced the chief to accept a check for the amount.

On arriving in Omaha, Forke stopped payment on the check.

When the check bounced back, Holmes telephoned Omaha police and requested that Forke be arrested and held for him. Detectives went to Forke's home and took him to the station.

The Havlock chief then asked local police to collect the fine, and send the money to him.

"I won't pay," Forke declared. "We are not a collection agency," said Detective Lieutenant Vanous.

The Havlock chief then announced that he was coming to Omaha for Forke.

At this juncture Mrs. Forke wired the money to the Havlock official in addition she had to wire about $3 to cover costs to telephone calls made by the police in having Forke rearrested.

"I stopped payment on the check because I was unjustly treated," Forke declared at the police station. "Two Havlock cars whizzed through the sign before me, but I was the only one arrested."

Census Figures Show 791,255 In Local Canal Area

Figures from the United States census bureau show that 791,255 persons live in the six counties which would be affected by the canalization of the Mahoning, Beaver and Shenango rivers. In these counties 26,627 filed income tax reports last year.

The large number filing income tax reports shows the wealth of the region. Of the over three-quarters of a million of persons who live in the six counties, Mahoning, Mercer, Columbiana, Trumbull, Lawrence and Beaver, 436,402 live in cities on the rivers to be improved by the proposed project.

These figures were received by H. S. Warwick, chairman of the allied industries committee of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday.

Names of leaders of the canal movement will appear this month in a history of waterway development now being compiled by the Mississippi Valley association.

"I find Flaxolyn worthy of warmest recommendation"

States Rome's Prominent Physician to Sufferers from this Common Ailment

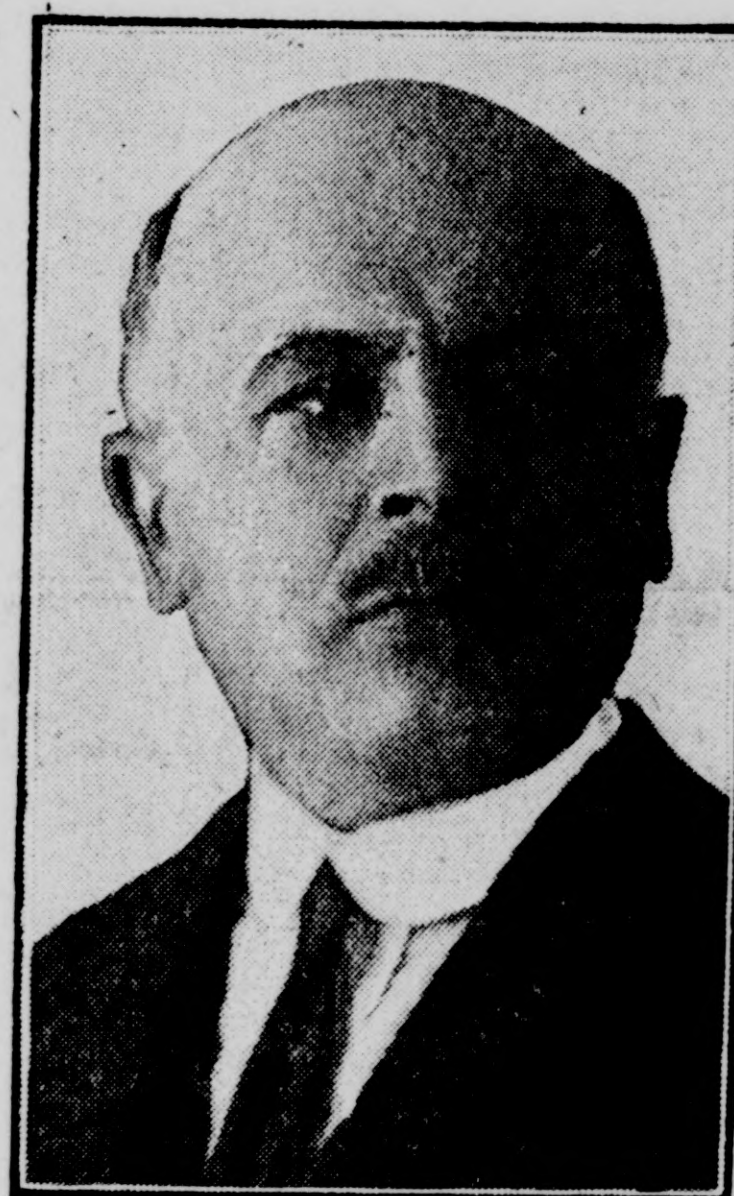

Be warned by those occasional spells of sick headaches, biliousness, heartburn, belching, bloating, gas and other symptoms of constipation! Take care, or the attacks may come more frequently. There is no reason why this insidious disease—even though it appears only now and then—should make you dull and listless.

Those wise folks who appreciate the importance of keeping the intestines clear and free of accumulated wastes which may harbor disease and play havoc with health, will be interested to know that Flaxolyn has been examined and heartily recommended by physicians both here and abroad. Read, for instance, the statement of Dr. Fernando Vivaldi:

"It is singularly appropriate that Flaxolyn should be put in the hands of a physician of modern Rome, where, centuries before the birth of America and Europe, learned doctors decided on the merits of medicines which were used perhaps to combat the very same ailments as those of the present day.

"Tested by years of experience as a practitioner, I find Flaxolyn worthy of the warmest recommendation for cases of stubborn temporary constipation, and in particular as an aid to the bowels after a break-down or following a period of exhaustion due to overwork or unusual strain. The herbal ingredients are as old and famous as Rome itself."

Fernando Vivaldi M.D.

DR. FERNANDO VIVALDI

Dr. Vivaldi is one of many physicians retained to pass judgment upon the merits of Flaxolyn. His favorable opinion is in agreement with those of other distinguished physicians, including Dr. Heinrich Ritter of Switzerland, Professor Dr. Remy Hirsch of Berlin, Dr. Franz Roser of Vienna, Dr. Regina Schumann of Leningrad, and others.

The high opinion of Flaxolyn held by Dr. Vivaldi and other physicians has been borne out by countless folks in this vicinity who have found in Flaxolyn a great stimulant to the appetite, a mild diuretic and a wonderfully efficient laxative acting upon the upper and lower bowel and the colon as well.

"I Have Seen the Unusual Results Flaxolyn Has Brought", says Rose Millen

American Dietician and Author

Rose G. Millen is the well-known head of the Boston, Mass., "Health Products Centre" and the author of the book which all health-seekers should read, "Light on Dietetics." This book has an introduction by a former dean of a leading University Medical School, who calls attention to Miss Millen's broad scientific training on the subject of correct eating. Miss Millen's opinion of Flaxolyn is therefore received with a great deal of interest. She says:

"Flaxolyn comes to the timely aid of our people. In my opinion, human beings never were intended to be meat eaters; their colon is too large and their liver too small. Billions of decay germs may enter the body here, even from the most temporary form of constipation. Flaxolyn has been given an unprecedented ovation, and I believe it is the greatest means of treating this common condition."

Constipation Used to Drain My Energy

Mr. Charles Heck is connected with one of Philadelphia's leading department stores. He tells his interesting experiences with Flaxolyn:

"I am so thankful for my improvement that I have induced almost 500 people to take Flaxolyn. One woman living on my street bought a half-dozen bottles and said, 'I only hope Flaxolyn does as much for my husband as it has for you, Mr. Heck.'"

Theatre Musicians Plan For Walkout

Philadelphia Movie Houses Will Be Without Orchestras Today Through Tieup

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 12.—Philadelphia movie palaces will be without orchestras today unless something unforeseen happens.

Strike orders, effective last midnight, were issued by the Musicians' Union following the refusal of the theater owners here to guarantee employment for the next two weeks to the same number of musicians as have been regularly employed.

The owners had sought to cut the staffs of their orchestras at once but the musicians demanded that the regular number of men be kept employed until the matter could be settled by arbitration or until September 25th when the present wage scale expires.

Racketeer Denied
Right To Testify
In Uniontown TrialProsecutor Balked In Effort To Connect Tony Bell With Racketeers

(International News Service)
UNIONTOWN, Pa., Sept. 12.—Balked in his attempt to introduce testimony connecting Tony Bell, former Mason town chief of police on trial for the murder of Constable Jack Donahoe, with a gang of racketeers and thus establish a possible motive for the killing, special prosecutor A. E. Jones planned to build up the commonwealth's case with additional important witnesses today.

Jones attempted to place Robert Kintz, alleged bootlegger and racketeer, on the witness stand late yesterday but objection by defense attorneys was sustained when the court ruled that connecting Donahoe with the gang would not furnish evidence material to the trial.

The prosecutor declared Kintz would testify that Bell was a member of the gang and had agreed to find the man who had stolen hundreds of gallons of liquor from the racketeers. Defense counsel maintained that no specific connection between Donahoe and the gang was established through this testimony.

Today marked the eleventh day of the trial, probably the most famous in Fayette county's history. Donahoe's bullet-riddled body was found in his automobile on July 31, 1929.

Vacation Is Sacred
Thing To Frenchmen

(International News Service)

PARIS, Sept. 12.—About one hundred thousand Frenchmen have left Paris within the last few days and are on their way to the vacation spots.

The vacation is a sacred thing in France. Everybody takes one, be he young or old, rich or poor. Money seems to turn up miraculously for a month at some little seaside resort or a rest in the mountains. The little shoemaker puts up his sign reading, "Gone to the country for the month of August," and the dentist has one to the effect that he hopes no one will suffer from toothache until he gets back in September. The only business that is flourishing during holiday time is that of pleasure, for which the French are renowned and perhaps dressmaking. Because the fifty thousand and more dressmakers are very busy creating costumes no smart Parisienne can refuse when she returns to town. And in the meantime, nearly all the theatres are closed down, except those which will appeal to the tired business man who speaks no French. Only the outstanding hits of the season are standing the strain of summer-time and even these will soon prepare for their annual repose, just like the baker, the shoemaker and the candlestickmaker.

Next winter, however, Parisian night life promises to be gay as ever, for fifteen new theatres are scheduled to open next season. Many playhouses will also be enlarged and transformed. Most of the number will spring up in the west end of the city. In the center will be the Plaza, which is still hanging fire between being a playhouse or a cinema. Montmartre will have another new cabaret and Montparnasse will boast a new circus-theatre, capable of seating three thousand persons, as well as a new American playhouse near the Boulevard Raspail. Despite early predictions, it is not expected that the talkies will make serious inroads of the French theatre.

LINDY JUNIOR'S FUTURE

A CHEERLESS PREDICTION
"Do you think that our country will ever succeed in getting rid of grafters?"
"Yes," answered Senator Sorghum. "There will be a time when grafters are unheard of. But it will be due to the change that is constantly going on in our vocabulary. There will be a new word that means the same thing."—From the Washington Star.

The Way Of The World
BY GROVE PATTERSON

WANT TO LIVE LONG?

Here it is again—the perfect rule for long life. Folks who live to be a hundred give different reasons for their great age. Most of them agree in some. Says Galusha Cole, California, 104: "Eat what you want when you want to; do what you want; play golf or ride an airplane; sing a song occasionally and, above all, don't worry." Mr. Cole's last two words—don't worry—are more important than all the rest. The absence of worry has a lot to do with his other rule about eating what you want. Much indigestion and other ill health are largely brought on by fear you are going to be sick. A man says: "I simply can't eat cucumbers." But if a high priced specialist at a high priced clinic should give him ground up cucumbers for medicine he would imagine he was getting well—and certainly the cucumbers wouldn't hurt him. Some people can't eat fish because they have particular way of thinking fish makes them sick. If it were only disguised as something else it probably wouldn't hurt them at all.

The average patient who goes to a sanitarium tells the doctor he can't do this or that or the other thing. Before he has been there long the patient finds he can do all of those things. He always could do them, but he let fear beat him.

Ford, Edison and Rockefeller got little education, which proves that education isn't necessary if you are a Ford, Edison or Rockefeller.

"Pennsylvania's forestry program," says Dr. Illick, "so substantially enlarged and improved in recent years, is confronted with many pressing and perplexing problems. A better understanding of these important forest problems constitutes the most pressing requirement for better practices."

"Forest growth studies show that he 13,000,000 acres of forest land in Pennsylvania are producing on an average less than one-tenth of the wood they are capable of yielding and most of the wood produced is inferior in quality and low in value. The big forest problem in Pennsylvania is to find practical ways to put out forests in order and keep them in order, so that they will be of the greatest possible service to the largest number of people."

"That we need better forests is an accepted fact. There is only one way to get them and that is through the use of better forestry methods. Until we have a more extended forestry knowledge we cannot hope to handle our forests properly and efficiently. Forest practices cannot rest upon opinions, traditions inferences or guesses. We need facts."

Referring to the recently established Pennsylvania Forest Research Institute, with headquarters on the Mont Alto State Forest, Dr. Illick says: "The purpose of the Pennsylvania Forest Research Institute is to bring about the betterment of forest practices on all types of forest land in Pennsylvania and we hope sincerely that its sphere of helpful services will extend beyond the boundaries of our Commonwealth. It is the purpose of this new institution to collect carefully and co-ordinate accurately, a substantial body of valuable forestry knowledge."

"There is a pressing demand for practical results in forestry and for methods that will be available for immediate or early use. The kind of forest research needed is that which will be of greatest service to practicing foresters and bring the greatest benefits to forest land owners of Pennsylvania."

Forestry problems that call for early solution in Pennsylvania, according to the State Forester, include forest fire problems, the chestnut blight, white pine blister, rust, deer damage, inferior wood problems, approved cutting methods, seed testing, growth and yield studies and surveys of the forest resources and wood-using industries.

Crooks Steal Park Sleeper's Clothes

(International News Service) AKRON, O., Sept. 12.—Oscar Burgess of this city, has added another resolution to his last New Year's list and for all New Years in the future. It is this: Never again to sleep on a park bench.

Oscar learned this lesson here recently when he awoke from a snooze in a local park to find that his underwear—everything but his undergarments—were missing. A police investigation of the case revealed that some clever clothing bandits had relieved him of his garments as he slept. He was taken home in a patrol wagon.

TELLS VALUE OF FOREST RESEARCH

State Forester Joseph S. Illick Discusses Forest Research In Publication

HARRISBURG Pa., Sept. 12.—The relation of forest research in Pennsylvania to improved forest conditions and greater benefits to the people and industries of the Commonwealth, is discussed by State Forester Joseph S. Illick in a new publication of the Department of Forests and Waters entitled "Forest Research in Pennsylvania."

"Pennsylvania's forestry program," says Dr. Illick, "so substantially enlarged and improved in recent years, is confronted with many pressing and perplexing problems. A better understanding of these important forest problems constitutes the most pressing requirement for better practices."

"Forest growth studies show that he 13,000,000 acres of forest land in Pennsylvania are producing on an average less than one-tenth of the wood they are capable of yielding and most of the wood produced is inferior in quality and low in value. The big forest problem in Pennsylvania is to find practical ways to put out forests in order and keep them in order, so that they will be of the greatest possible service to the largest number of people."

"That we need better forests is an accepted fact. There is only one way to get them and that is through the use of better forestry methods. Until we have a more extended forestry knowledge we cannot hope to handle our forests properly and efficiently. Forest practices cannot rest upon opinions, traditions inferences or guesses. We need facts."

Bees Almost Rout Forest Fire Fighters

(International News Service) HELENA, Mont., Sept. 12.—A swarm of bees almost routed a crew of forest fire fighters near Alhambra the other day. A large old tree began burning. It had been the home of the bees and scorched honey was pouring from the burning hollow. When the fire fighters began to attack the tree with their axes, the bees started attacking the fire fighters.

"Those bees certainly were hot and bothered," said one of the foresters.

CLEAN QUARTERS IMPORTANT

Cleanliness is an important consideration to the Lawrence county poultrymen who are planning to put their flocks into winter quarters.

All laying houses should be thoroughly cleaned and disinfected before being used for the pullets. Remove all litter nesting material and then brush the ceiling and walls with an old broom to remove all dust and cobwebs. If there is a dirt floor in the house, remove several inches of the dirt and replace with clean gravel.

Scrub the lower walls and floor with a solution made with one 12-ounce can of lye and 20 gallons of boiling water. The house is now ready to be disinfected with any of the good coal tar disinfectants. If the laying house is whitewashed it will be lighter for the birds during the winter months. Also, be sure to replace all torn muslin curtains and broken window panes and do all repair work necessary before the pullets are housed.

Pullets should be graded and housed according to maturity. The well-developed pullets which are ready to lay should be put in a pen by themselves. The smaller less mature birds should be left on the range until ready to lay. If the large and the small birds are put together in the same pen, the big birds will crowd the less mature birds away from the mash hoppers.

NEW ASSOCIATION

An outgrowth of the recent trip into the fruit section of northeastern Ohio, 60 farmers from Butler, Lawrence, Mercer, Erie and Forest counties have formed the Western Pennsylvania Association of Berry Growers.

H. D. Landis, Girard, is president of the new organization, and Rankin Johnson, New Castle, is secretary-treasurer. John Dietz, Ridgway; J. A. Shattuck, Belle Valley, and W. T. Wilhelm, Greenville, were appointed to the committee on policy. Educational meetings and automobile tours will be conducted as part of the association activities.

rence county last week. Loss of appetite and general listlessness of birds characterize this disease.

Quite often most of the birds become sick at the same time and flocks as a whole may consume little or no feed from two to five days, they do however consume a large amount of water. The birds lose in weight and droop around for about seven days. Birds in 50 per cent production may drop to 5 per cent in five days time. In about seven days the birds begin to eat, but it will take three to eight weeks for the hens to get back to full production. The mortality usually ranges from 2 to 8 per cent.

Some poultrymen contend that the first sign of the disease is black circles around the eyes. The birds usually respond to a treatment of Epsom salts at the rate of one pound to about 100 or 125 mature birds, if given when the first symptoms are noticed. The birds should receive a dose in proportion to their development. The salts should be fed in the drinking water because the birds refuse to eat.

Since the cause of the disease is unknown, it is called the "unknown disease". It has been prevalent in the New England states for several years, but did not appear in western Pennsylvania until last year.

TO ERADICATE LAWN MOLES

Several methods have proved effective in controlling moles in lawns. They can be eradicated and controlled by traps, by poison bait made by soaking fresh corn in strychnine solution, digging out with a garden spade directly behind the area in which the moles have been working, rolling the lawn, introduction of castor beans, which are poisonous to the moles, into their burrows and by placing a teaspoonful of calcium cyanide in the burrow where the soil temperature will cause a poisonous gas to be generated with fatal results to the moles.

COUNTY GROWERS TO TOUR

Tentative arrangements for a local tour of Lawrence county fruit growers has been made for Wednesday, September 17. The local orchard men plan to visit several of the leading orchards in the county at that time.

Persons interested in making the trip should get in touch with the Agricultural Extension association to receive further information which will be available within a few days.

Artists' Models Must Wear Trunks

(International News Service)
WEIMAR, (Thuringia), Sept. 12.—Living artist models in Thuringia must wear swimming trunks by order of Professor Paul Schultze-Naumburg, noted German architect and director of the Weimar Art School to which post he was recently appointed by Dr. Frick, national-socialist Minister of the Interior of that state.

Democratic papers are violently attacking Professor Schultze-Naumburg for his action and are pointing out that he defended nudity in a pamphlet published 28 years ago, containing 49 photos of nude women.

Dies While Playing With Small Children

(International News Service)
LONDON, Sept. 12.—Christopher Ward, of Walton-on-Thames, loved children and flowers. He was 65, but he was always ready to romp with local boys and girls, and the children loved to romp with him. So when he was tending his garden recently he willingly went out across the street to a vacant lot when the children appealed to him to play with them. He joined in the fun, laughing and romping—until suddenly he staggered and fell back dead.

There were many children present at his funeral.

U. S. Missionaries Sail For Foreign Posts

(International News Service)
BOSTON, Sept. 12.—Six American men and women missionaries, serving under the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, are on the high seas, bound for posts in China, Japan and Turkey, after brief furloughs here.

Miss Valley L. Nelson, R. N., of Tacoma, Washington, missionary representative of the Plymouth Church of Seattle, sailed to her post as nurse in the Elizabeth Memorial Hospital, Lintsing, China, where she has already served five years.

Born in Osaka, Japan, while her parents were missionaries there, Miss Alice Elizabeth Cary, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Otis Cary, of Auburndale, Mass., sailed for that country on the S. S. Chichibu Maru. She is supported in her work by the Springfield branch of the Congregational Churches and many New Hampshire churches. On the same ship was Miss Sarah M. Field, of Burlington, Iowa, bound for Kobe, Japan, where she is teacher of English and a worker among the girl reserves. She also conducts classes in foreign cooking.

Rev. and Mrs. Harold S. Matthews, of Clear Lake and Marshalltown, Iowa, missionary representatives of Grinnell college sailed for Tehchpw, Shantung, China, where they have already served seven years.

Lyle S. Shelmdine, of Spencer, Iowa, sailed from Brooklyn, N. Y., to fill an appointment as a teacher for three years in the American College, Tarsus, Turkey.

RIMBACH, Haut-Rhin, Sept. 12.—A six-legged calf has just been born to a cow belonging to a farmer of this vicinity. Besides the four ordinary legs, this little animal possesses two which spring from the center of its body. He is in excellent health and has no trouble at all getting around on his extra legs. Good luck came with the six legs, for instead of being led to the slaughter-house, the calf will be exhibited in country fairs.

Extensive Logging Operations Possible

(International News Service)
DENVER, Sept. 12.—Logging operations involving the expenditure of $800,000 annually in Colorado were made possible by the recent decision of the Secretary of Agriculture awarding the sale of five and a half million dollars worth of pulpwood to the Trans-Mississippi Development company. The pulpwood sold is located within the Rio Grande and San Juan national forests.

The Trans-Mississippi Development company is a subsidiary of the International Paper company of New York.

Present plans of the company call for the production of approximately 100,000 cords of pulpwood annually. A force of 400 men will be employed throughout the year, with an additional 100 for about two months during the peak season.

Emancipation Of Women Cause Of Moral Crisis

So Asserts Great English Scholar
In Recent Article In Magazine

The rapid and widespread emancipation of women, and their entry into all fields of economic and intellectual work must necessarily affect sexual morals, as the independent woman, earning her living by her own exertions, cannot possibly keep up the same extreme sensibilities as the protected woman nor indulge in the same helplessness or narrow-mindedness.

This is the opinion of the great scholar, Gilbert Murray, Regius Professor of Greek at Oxford, who writes on "The Crisis in Morals" in Harpers Magazine. Speaking of the emancipation of women, he says also:

"I think that so great a revolution has naturally produced some confusion of thought and conduct. As this confusion clears away, I think we shall find our current rules of sexual conduct, which were framed to suit one set of conditions, partly rewritten to suit another. They will be written, as they usually are, by women. They will probably be more sensible; but I see no reason to suppose that they will be lower or more lax in their demands on human nature."

"Social conventions may change; I think, as regards the marriage laws they will change and ought to change. But I have little doubt that the value of chastity and the need for chastity will remain, like the need for self-control, for fair dealing, for courage, for honesty and for a number of other simple matters which can be felt better than defined."

Men Still Numerous Among State Teachers

Percentage Is Greatest In Rural Districts; Most Comparatively Young

HARRISBURG, Sept. 12.—The schoolmaster, supreme in his one-room schoolhouse, is still very much in evidence in Pennsylvania.

In contradiction to the popular notion that the male teacher in rural schools has gone the way of many other forgotten institutions of an earlier generation, statistics compiled by the Department of Public Instruction revealed that more than one-fourth of teachers of one-room schoolhouses are men.

Of a total of 7084 teachers of the "little red brick" schoolhouses, 1921 are of the male sex. Of the remainder 1109 are married women.

More than that, the percentage of male teachers in the rural one-room buildings is greater than in the other sections of the state. The same thing is true of the women who bear the "Mrs." prefix before their name.

One notable difference from days of the school "dunce" and the hickory stick is that most of the men teachers today are comparatively young. These men enter the teaching profession merely temporarily until they can find a place in the industrial and commercial world in contrast to the earlier days when the schoolmaster made teaching school their profession and followed it as a career.

The reason there are so many more men and married women holding teaching positions in the small schools than in municipalities is the lower requirements of preparations demanded in the sparsely settled communities served by the one-room schoolhouse.

York county with 142 men teachers leads the state, although Lehigh county has the biggest proportion, 99 ing school with fifty-eight and Erie is second with forty-nine.

An entire dwelling house has been stolen near Portland, Me. It being Maine, perhaps the owners are satisfied; cellars are exceptionally valuable in such a dry state, and no way has yet been found for swiping a cellar.—The New London Day.

Home Furnishings Cost
Lowest Since War

Up at the Lawrence County Court House you'll find that a marriage license will cost you just what it did, one year ago or ten years ago. And when you go to the magistrate or notary, basic costs, you will learn, are the same as of yore.

But despite all that, the cost of wedded bliss in dollars and cents has decreased decisively. In fact the cost is less according to United States departmental reports than at any time in 12 years.

Just how do we mean?

This. Most newlyweds will agree that the biggest financial item in properly synchronizing two hearts that beat as one is the matter of household furnishings. And United States Government reports announce that not since 1918 have house furnishings been so low in price.

The all-around purchasing power of the consumer's dollar is now $1.27 assuming that it was an even 100 cents in 1929, says Uncle Sam. But at the furniture stores the dollar of 1929 has a purchasing power of $1.44.

There are two conclusions that might well be appended to this brief item. The best plan seems to be to add the both and let the reader take his or her choice depending on whether they are wedded or single.

Now is a good time to get married.
Or
Now is a good time to buy furniture.

23. Nathanael Greene—Gates' Defeat At Camden

AT DAYBREAK ON AUGUST 16, 1780, GATES ENCOUNTERED CORNWALLIS' BRITISH ARMY, WHICH HAD COME OUT FROM CAMDEN (S.C.) TO MEET HIM. GATES HAD NEGLECTED TO RECONNOITER THE ENEMY'S STRENGTH AND POSITION, AND HIS ARMY, LARGELY COMPOSED OF RAW MILITIA, WAS WEARY FROM A NIGHT MARCH.

CORNWALLIS, ASCERTAINING HIS OPPONENT'S WEAK SPOT, STRUCK HARD AT THE AMERICAN LEFT WHERE THE MILITIA WAS POSTED. SOME NERVOUS RECRUITS TURNED AND RAN AT FIRST SIGHT OF THE BRISTLING HEDGE OF BRITISH BAYONETS. PANIC SPREAD THROUGH THE RANKS AND SOON THE WHOLE BODY OF MILITIA WAS STREAMING TO THE REAR IN A MAD STAMPEDE.

DE KALB, WHO HAD COMMANDED ON THE RIGHT, BRAVELY COUNTER-ATTACKED WITH HIS VETERAN CONTINENTALS (THE 1ST AND 2ND MARYLAND LINE AND A DELAWARE BATTALION) AND COVERED THE RETREAT OF THE FLEEING MILITIA. AFTER AN HOUR'S FIGHT, THE GALLANT DE KALB WAS KILLED AND THE CONTINENTALS RETIRED, LEAVING THEIR GUNS AND BAGGAGE ON THE FIELD.

GATES, WHO HAD BEEN SWEEPED TO THE REAR IN THE FIRST RUSH OF FUGITIVES, DISPLAYED UNSUSPECTED ENERGY IN HIS RETREAT. ON THE SECOND DAY AFTER THE BATTLE THE FLEEING GENERAL REACHED HILLSBORO, 160 MILES TO THE NORTH. THE DEFEAT AT CAMDEN CLOSED GATES' MILITARY CAREER.

Chicago Cubs May Not Sign McCarthy For Another Season

Rumors Prevail That Rogers Hornsby Will Succeed McCarthy As Manager

Cubs In Throes Of Losing Streak Are Believed Fighting Among Themselves

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK Sept. 12.—Joe McCarthy who managed the Chicago Cubs to one championship last year and has them teetering back and fourth in front of another this time, may not have a chance to make his play for a third in 1931. This possibility, bandied about with some abandon during the last two weeks, had received no official confirmation by the time the Cubs left town last night but neither had it been accorded the dignity of an absolute, unqualified denial and, of the two, the latter was thought to be the more significant.

Failure of the Chicago ownership to come forward and definitely sanction McCarthy's status in the face of repeated innuendoes from sources outside the club leaves possible incompatibility as a natural surmise. If the ownership was committed to McCarthy for 1931, it would sign him immediately in self-defense and to quiet the trade, it was argued; whereas, it was assumed no attitude, beyond the negative one of refusing to discuss the situation at any enlightening length.

Hornsby As Manager
If McCarthy doesn't return, Rogers Hornsby may become heir to another managerial tidbit although those with the Cubs caravan are markedly evasive on that point. There has been no undermining, no "chiseling," they say. McCarthy and Hornsby are amicable, it is added, and as for Root and Blake, who are supposed to have hired a taxicab in order to do their fighting in peace, they are reported to as being very good personal friends.

The taxicab episode is denied in all its ramifications; so are the stories about discord within the ranks. Indeed I might say that the Cubs seemed to be fighting as one, instead of together, as they went down before the Dodgers for the third straight time yesterday, a circumstance that left them dangling from first place by the gossamer thread of a half-game.

On Losing Streak
They had blown eleven out of the last sixteen, they had scored only one run in twenty nine innings and their pitchers, barring Bush, couldn't get the side out. But they went down trying and that kind is liable to bounce indefinitely before it is absolutely prostrate. As a matter of fact, the Cubs are just an ordinary ball club, constructed with an eye to the peculiar needs of the North Side grounds at Chicago and they have gone far with what they have.

However, camp opinion is to the effect that success or failure this year will have no great bearing on the McCarthy situation; that the trouble, if there is trouble, is organic, so to speak. The intimation is that the Cub ownership thinks it has a better club than it has shown itself to be whereas general opinion seems to indicate that, if the Cubs never go any further, they have done all the sight-seeing to which their ability entitles them. And they have done all of it under McCarthy, from last to fourth place in 1926, fourth again in 1927 and 1928, first last year and at the pace in 1930, going into the final two weeks of season.

So it is rather obvious indeed, that if McCarthy is not to be a holdover, success must be his unpardonable mistake. It couldn't be failure. He hasn't had any of it.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Bill Tilden advanced to the semi-finals of the men's national tennis championship yesterday at Forest Hills when he beat John Van Ryn, 4-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Jimmy McLarnin knocked out Al Singer, present lightweight champion in the third round of a scheduled 10-round bout at New York last night. Forty thousand fans witnessed the fight. McLarnin sent Singer down with a left to the chin and when it appeared Singer was out he turned a handspring. Singer got up, received another left and was put away for the full count. For the first two rounds Singer held his own with McLarnin who weighed 140 to Singer's 135.

Mrs. Frank Campbell of Stanton Heights will play Betty Abernathy of Oakmont in the 18-hole final round for the women's western Pennsylvania golf championship. They will meet on the Westmoreland Country Club course.

Although Johnny Datto knocked down Joe Thomas of Chicago four times in the second round of their 10-round fight at Millvale last night the decision went to Thomas who displayed a style from the third round that Datto could not solve. Thomas did not fight a defensive bout but kept close to Johnny who could not effectively use his right hand.

Jockey Mike Mitchell sustained a crushed chest and wrenched spine at Wheeling yesterday when Ralge, running fourth in the fifth race, stumbled, went down, crushing Mitchell beneath him.

Mellman Groomed As Quarterback On Teacher's Eleven

Former Fifth Avenue Pittsburgh Star May Get Call For Signal Barking Job

SLIPPERY ROCK, Sept. 12.—Herbert Mellman, former Fifth Avenue High star, is likely to get the call for the quarterback job on Coach Ker Thompson's Teacher Eleven this fall, if practices this week are any indication of the probable lineup. This position, a source of worry during spring practice, has been a wide open contest between several candidates, but fans feel certain that Mellman will direct the team in the opening tilt against Waynesburg Sept. 20th.

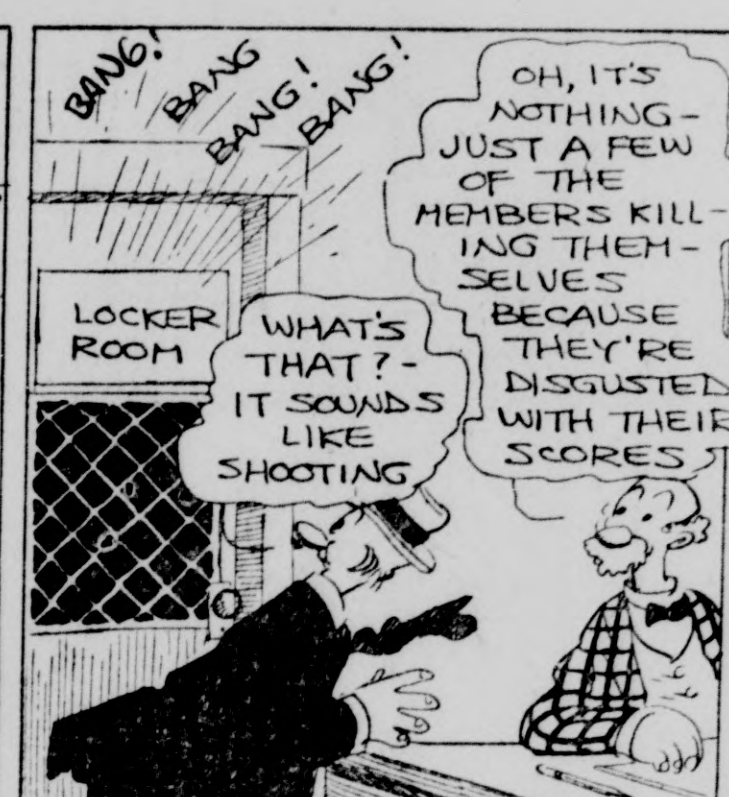

The chance of the Green and White to be at full strength in the opening game against the Yellowjackets received a severe blow when Captain Henry Ott was taken ill and had to be removed to his home in Munhall. It is likely that Coach Thompson will use Paul Morgan, a reserve hailing from New Kensington, at Ott's position, and depend upon McPadden and Brown to hold down the other wing. With this shift in view Slippery Rock's opponents are almost certain to face a veteran line that will average close to 180 lbs., composed of Morgan and McPadden, ends: Wilson and Miles, tackles, Schultz and Ralston, guards and Wolfe, center.

The backfield in addition to Mellman is composed of Mehninger and Mills at the halves, with Cataio and Westlake alternating at the fullback post. Other men showing well in the ball totting positions are Miller Kerr, halfback and Jack Bentz, quarterback. The selection of Mellman at quarterback may mean that the Coaches will use both Cataio and Westlake in the lineup at the same time in an effort to add more weight to the backfield. In that case Mills will, in all probability, be benched in favor of one of the fullbacks.

Football Team Is Organized

The Malizia Brothers football team has been organized for the coming grid season and will be out to take the championships. Any team desiring a game can call 3393 and ask for Irvin or call 830W and ask for Philip. Games are desired with the following teams: Buccaneers; Smiths, or any others of that caliber. The following players are on the roster of the team: N. Diana, W. Leonelli, I. Rubels, T. Vincent, G. Pia, T. Cook, T. Valentino, D. Morgan, Jim Landino, and Abe Rubels. Abe Rubels is on the injured list with a sprained ankle. Tonight at 5:30 o'clock the team will hold a practice session.

THEY CAN HAVE IT

1930 Cubs Have Already Played Twelve "World Series" Games

As Told to William Ritt
Central Press Sports Editor
By JOE MCCARTHY
Chicago Cubs' Manager

"A SECOND National league pennant is only one of two incentives which have driven the Cubs to make their grand fight this season. The other reason? Another crack at those Athletics."

"That's why the A's have had a lot of rooters on this club. It's a sort of a left-handed compliment. We've been pulling for the A's to win because if they didn't and Washington did, where would our chance to wipe out that 1929 affair be?"

"Don't get the idea I think the A's would be easy to beat this year. I think they are as strong, every bit of it, as they were a year ago. They are a great ball team. But I believe the Cubs could beat them."

"For one thing the Cubs have already played 12 world series games this year."

Three "World Series"

"Know what I mean? Since Aug.

12, less than a month ago, the Cubs have played THREE so-called crucial series of four games each against the three toughest teams in the league. Twelve games against three teams and we came out on top—won eight of the games.

"And that isn't all. When we met the Robins they were in a desperate position. They were in a slump and when a team has its back to the wall it takes everything you've got to turn them back. The first game was a nerve-racking 11-inning affair, but we won, 3-2. By taking two of the next three the Cubs had put a temporary crimp into Brooklyn ambitions. But our troubles were far from over. The Giants were coming along at a fast clip to take the Robins' place as the outstanding challenger, and we met them five days later.

"When Danny Taylor stole home to give us the fourth and decisive game of the Giant series the Cubs had beaten off two challengers and had earned a rest. But did they get it?"

Those 12 "World Series" Games

- August 12
Chicago 3, Brooklyn 2 (11 innings)
- August 13
Brooklyn 15, Chicago 5
- August 14
Chicago 5, Brooklyn 1
- August 15
Chicago 4, Brooklyn 3 (10 innings)
- August 21
New York 13, Chicago 6
- August 22
Chicago 12, New York 4
- August 23
Chicago 4, New York 2
- August 24
Chicago 4, New York 3
- August 28
St. Louis 8, Chicago 7 (20 innings)
- August 29
Chicago 9, St. Louis 8 (13 innings)
- August 30
Chicago 16, St. Louis 4
- August 31
St. Louis 8, Chicago 3

Cardinals Tough? Wow!

"Four days after the Giant series ended the Cardinals had to be tackled and at a time when the St. Louis club was going at a terrific pace, distancing both the Robins and the Giants."

"What a series! That 20-inning first game which the Red Birds won and then the next day the Cubs winning in 13 innings! Thirty-three innings of battling in two days between clubs scraping for the pennant! Can I forget that, soon!"

"So why should the Cubs, after coming out on top after that kind of warfare, be overly nervous about a seven-game world series?"

"We're not underestimating the ability of the A's. Not a bit! Connie Mack has a first-class ball club. But don't forget the Cubs. They're world series veterans in the strictest sense!"

No Trade School Team This Year

Combined Trade School And Junior High Eleven For Franklin

It was announced today that this year there will be no New Castle Trade school football team but instead a team will be selected from candidates from Franklin and the Trade School and will be known as Franklin Junior High. Coach Emmett Gillaspie is sending his 60 prospects through workouts daily in the hope that he will soon be able to find the eleven men who will represent Franklin on the gridiron this season.

Last night Coach Gillaspie sent the griders through a long workout which consisted of blocking and interference. The team from that institution this year will be small. The candidates are green with many boys not having seen action before. When the season opens for the Franklin eleven is not known yet.

Ends Plentiful On Titan Grid Squad Now in Training

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Sept. 12.—A minstrel show could hardly get along without ends, and so with football.

Last year Coach "Dike" Beede's Westminster College grid team, with a good line and a good backfield, suffered because of lack of ends. With the opening of the fall training camp last week it became known that Harry Brownlee, Lock Haven, one of the three ends from last year's squad, would not report for football. This left only Emmett, Tweedy, a senior from Turtle Creek, and George Cebula, Campbell, O., among the veterans for the terminals.

But when the new men reported, a number of promising ends were in the group. Outstanding among the men competing for the terminals are Chas. Myler, New Castle; Elmer Meider, Pittsburgh; and Victor Knabe, Turtle Creek.

Myler played for two years on the New Castle high team at guard and end. He is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 170 pounds. In scrimmage sessions so far Myler has shown to advantage. Meider, a graduate of Schenley high school, Pittsburgh, is 6 feet tall and weighs 165. He too, has shown considerable ability. Knabe, captain of the Turtle Creek Union high team in 1928 is 5 feet 7 inches tall and weighs 174.

Other end candidates in addition to Tweedy and Cebula are Don Parkinson, Ellwood City; Wilbur Patterson, Youngstown; Chaney and Ben Herter, Rochester. All those men have shown ability and will give Coach Beede eight wingmen to select from instead of only three or four as was the case last year.

Petrolle Beats Tony Canzoneri

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Billy Petrolle, the Fargo, N. D., lightweight, commanded more respect today as a championship contender because of his decision victory over Tony Canzoneri in an exciting ten round battle at Chicago stadium last night.

Petrolle, landing heavy punches to the New York challenger's head and body, took six of the ten rounds. Canzoneri rallied to win the sixth and seventh rounds.

The Fargo battler opened a deep cut above Canzoneri's right eye in the second round and from then until the finish it was a somewhat gory spectacle. Blood trickled down the right side of Canzoneri's face and body during the rest of the bout.

New Castle Football Line Has Heavy Men; First Game Next Week

When Coraopolis High School football team meets New Castle high in the opening grid game of the season at Taggart field on Friday night, September 19, the visitors will be battling against a rather husky line. The local line this season will average close to 170 pounds. Coach Phil Bridenbaugh on Thursday afternoon at Taggart field gave the boys a workout which lasted close to three hours.

The linemen were all sent through charging the sled exercises. The linemen this year appear to have plenty of beef. Two members of the "cement wall crew" scale over 200. They are Pericles Askounes and Harry Crisel. The other members register from 150 up.

With such men as Robert Hoose, Robert Jamison, Hibbard Hileman, Askounes, Crisel, and DeCarbo one can readily see how the local line will shape up.

While the line was charging the sled down in one part of the field, Coach Bridenbaugh inaugurated a new exercise for the backfield. With the aid of blocks made out of wood the backfield men were sent through side stepping exercises. This gives the gridders experience in side-stepping.

Signal drill was next on the program. The first team went through light signal drills trying out the different plays which Coach Bridenbaugh is saving for the opening game.

It was unknown whether or not William Bender, halfback will be eligible to play this season or not. At the present time a letter of inquiry is being sent to the decision committee of the W. P. I. A. L. by Principal F. L. Orth. There is hope that the red headed one will be eligible to play. With Bender in the lineup, the locals will be strengthened, as he is fast.

While the first string team is busily engaged going through signal drills the second and third teams on another part of the field under the direction of Assistant Coaches William L. Klee and "Gig" Thomas are doing the same thing. The second team oppose the varsity eleven in scrimmage and proved worthy opponents.

One Change In Athletic Heads At Westminster

All Athletic Coaches Except Lawther Return To Westminster Posts

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Sept. 12.—When college opens at Westminster next week there will be few changes in the athletic organization from that of last year. In place of J. D. Lawther, resigned, Lawrence "Pops" Harrison will be director of athletics and coach of varsity basketball.

A. A. McDonald continues as graduate manager of athletics. Jack Hulme, varsity team trainer and director of aquatics, will continue in that position. D. V. "Dike" Beede, head football coach for the last four years, will continue as grid mentor. R. X. "Zerk" Graham will again coach the cross country and track teams.

Harrison, who comes to Westminster from the University of Iowa, where he was a star in football, basketball and baseball, will have charge of all varsity and intra-mural athletics. Jack Hulme and Harrison will direct all affairs of the gymnasium.

A number of student assistants in the aquatic and masseur departments of the gymnasium have not been announced as yet.

Ready For 100 Mile Auto Race

Forty Some Drivers To Compete Here Saturday Afternoon

EXPECT BIG CROWD TO WITNESS EVENT

Everything is in readiness for the 100 mile automobile race of the American Motor Contest association at New Castle Fair ground track Saturday afternoon. The racers will get the flag at three o'clock and despite the fact that forty some drivers will be hurtling their cars around the half mile oval on the "thirteenth" fear will be relegated to the back ground.

When more than half of the drivers qualified last Saturday some of the cars made the half mile oval in 33 seconds and were not letting out their steeds. In fact they were only anxious to turn in marks that would qualify them for the race.

Among the more famous of the drivers in the event is Bill Chittum, Columbus, champion dirt track driver of America. Local interest will be centered on Hamilton and Theilman. According to their close friends they will be well up in the race when it is concluded.

Starter Jack Hayes said today that the drivers and he would welcome leaden skies, providing it does not rain as this will protect the racers from the hot rays of the sun. Should it rain tonight it will make the track good as the dust will have been laid and the track can dry out in a few hours.

Chittum can expect a good chase by Shorty Wolfe, 100 mile dirt track king, Beech Berrell, Gene Morgan, Ken Dunlap, Ernie Jones, Fred Flickman, Virgil Kynett, Sam Gibson, Jack Caey, Billy Schenck and others who have qualified for the grid.

A big turnout of fans is anticipated. One thousand were in the grandstand last Saturday and realized that the track was too dangerous for speed. As the promoters put the race off until tomorrow it is anticipated they will qualify the drivers at 10 a. m. and start the gasoline derby promptly at three o'clock.

McLarnin Wins Over Singer By Knockout Route

Jimmy McLarnin Put Over Knockout Punch On Champion Al Singer

SINGER'S TITLE NOT AT STAKE

By PHYFE IGOE
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—They tossed Baby Singer into the lion's cage and he got a fearful clawing.
Al Singer didn't belong in the same ring with Jimmy McLarnin, who knocked him out here last night in three rounds.

Singer went along beautifully in the first round.
Jimmy pressed him hard in the 2nd and probably made up his mind that he wasn't going past the third. He ripped a left and right into Al's body when Singer let fly with a right that only grazed Jimmy's jaw. McLarnin deliberately pulled out of the line of fire and the two counter blows were devastating.

Singer Goes Down
Then Jimmy followed with a left to the body that made Al's mouth pop open. Then a left hook to the jaw staggered Al.

A man must not totter in front of Jimmy McLarnin. He has elephant guns for fists when a man does that. He pumped both of them at Singer's jaw and down he went like an old brick chimney.

He stretched full on his stomach. His face buried in the canvas. Frantically he began to clutch at the back of his neck. Something must have happened.

Singer's body seemed glued to the floor as "six," "seven," "eight" was counted and then like a flash he was getting up—was up.

McLarnin Turns Flip
In the meantime McLarnin thinking that he had knocked out his man took a run from the far corner and did a forward flip through the air.

He was about to catapult through the air for a second time when McAvoy, the referee, grasped his arm and yelled:
"Come on, he's up! Keep on fighting."

It was then that Jimmy's prank might have cost him the fight. Stung to the quick but desperate, Singer let fly, even before McLarnin could make a fighting stance. A shuffle, a miss, a feint and Singer fell in on another short left hook with a right following it to his jaw. He pitched to the floor like an interrogation point there to stay.

Just Didn't Belong
Once he looked up and the wildness of his baby eyes was frightful. He clutched at his neck, the back of it. Surely something had happened but there was a great sigh of relief when he began to move his head around on his shoulder as they picked him up of this floor.

Dr. Walker said that the finishing blows, those two rights, had jarred the boy's spinal cord and that partial paralysis had taken place. Singer thought his neck had been broken and he wasn't alone in his fright.

Al didn't belong. He was overmatched. He had been whistling himself past that grave yard all along.

Singer weighed 136½. McLarnin 140. Odd it was, that McLarnin got a much greater round of applause than Singer.

Excited Referee Puts Jimmy Away

Jimmy Downey was fighting Cotton Fryant at Okanogan, Wis., and when he swung he clogged his eyes. One of his haymakers caught Referee Gene Fritts on the chin. The latter sent a left to Downey's chin, followed with a right cross and Jimmy went down for the count which was all wrong.

"That's my experience," agreed Whifflebaum. "Last March I gave away my daughter, and she and her husband came back in July—Pathfinder."

Palus Stars With Homer And Double As Carnegie Wins Series Game 13-7

Brooklyn-Cards And Cubs Bunched For League Lead

Brooklyn Again Downs Cubs As Cardinals Take Measure Of Giants

CLOSE RACE IS VERY INTERESTING

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Climaxing their great September spurt with the third straight win over the Chicago Cubs, the Brooklyn Robins today brought the fiercest pennant fight in the history of the National League into a virtual deadlock. Chicago still leads with a half a game and the St. Louis Cardinals are sweeping along in second place by virtue of a single point over the drama-making Robins.

Gienn Wright belted a homer with one on in the first inning that doomed the Bruins at the outset, but it was only one of the most brilliant hurling performances of the season by Dazzy Vance that finally snagged it for Brooklyn 2 to 1. The Cubs' lone score was a whacking homer by Hack Wilson, his 48th of the year. Vance allowed only five hits and set a season record in striking out 13 men. In achieving his record the Dazzler horse collared the great Wilson, Hartnett, Blair and Bush twice, Cuyler and Bell once each and Taylor three times. It was the Robins' seventh straight triumph.

Hafey Hits Homer.

Chick Hafey's home run in the first round gave the Cardinals a three-run lead and Hafey scored the winning run in the eighth on a high bounce by Andy High to down the Giants 5 to 4. McGraw's team left 14 runners on base, outsting St. Louis 10 to 8 and twice failed with a punch when the sacks were stuffed.

Washington practically cinched the American league pennant for the Athletics by losing to the Browns 7 to 4. It was the 18th victory of Walter Stewart, St. Louis pitcher.

Ted Lyons chalked up his 21st game for the White Sox, snatching a 12-inning skirmish from the Boston Ruddy Sox, 4 to 3. Red Barnes' single brought the winning counter.

The fallen Reds skidded before the declassé Phillies 15 to 7, five Cincinnati pitchers vainly striving to stem the Phils' attack.

Ruffing and McEvoy were as powerless as Al Singer after Jimmy McLarnin finished his business of dusting and the Indians downed the Yanks 9 to 5.

Brame was more steady than brilliant but enabled the Pirates to sink the Braves 5 to 2.

Detroit and the Athletics were idle.

Birds Reduce Numbers Of Chestnut Weevils

U. S. Bureau's Experiments In Maryland Orchards Are Securing Results

In the experimental chestnut orchard of the United States department of agriculture at Bell, Md., an effort to increase the number of birds as enemies of nut weevils has been carried on since 1926 by the Bureau of Biological Survey and the Bureau of Plant Industry. By providing numerous bird houses the population of birds has been increased steadily. Expressed in terms of the number of broods to the acre, the bird population has risen as follows: In 1926, 6.8 broods to the acre; 1927, 16 broods; 1928, 18.5 broods; 1929, 25.4 broods. As these are in addition to broods produced by birds nesting in trees and shrubbery, the area involved now carries a dense bird population.

Practically all the common insectivorous birds of the eastern part of the United States feed upon chestnut weevils when opportunity affords.

Consequently the birds that have been attracted to the experimental chestnut orchard are certain to feed upon these pests. The fact, however, has been directly verified in finding remains of the weevils in food residues collected from the bird boxes.

That the feeding activities of these birds are having an effect in controlling the numbers of nut weevils is probable from counts made by F. E. Brooks of the Bureau of Entomology, to reveal the severity of infestation in the Bell orchard as compared with that in an orchard near Fairfax, Va., where no effort has been made to increase the number of birds. At Bell, where 100 per cent infestation formerly was the rule, some of the nuts now seem to be escaping damage, and the average infestation at the time the count was made was 24 weevil larvae to the nut; at the Fairfax station the number was 14.7 larvae to the nut. It has been apparent from ordinary observation at Bell that the number of weevils seen on the chestnut burs during the egg-laying season has been much less than was the case a few years ago before the number of birds had been increased.

No wonder farmers remain poor. The poor saps never threaten to shoot people who won't pay their price.

Pheasants At Game Farm Believe In Punctuality In Eating Their Meals

Seven o'clock in the morning and five o'clock at night are breakfast and dinner times for the several thousands pheasants at the Jordan State Game Farm, near Harlansburg, and they make it a point to be faithful to those hours. Pheasants don't sport wrist watches of course, but some way, whether by instinct or by psychic over-development, they know when it is time to be fed, and when it is time, they let every one know about it.

In the morning, according to H. J. Sines, of the Game Farm, the birds are given soft food and mash. In the evening they are given their scratch feed, scattered along the ground, within their various pens.

When the feeding time comes along the pheasants are called to attention by several mono-tone whistles, and then in a few seconds they come on the run.

THANK YOU VERY MUCH
A golfer observed two small boys watching him.

"You boys will never learn by watching me."

"We ain't interested in golf, Mister," said the small boys. "We're going fishing as soon as we get three more worms."—Arcanum Bulletin.
